GOVERNMENT APPEALS . . .

Judge Blocks HUAC Probe

Washington (UPI)—Federal District Judge Howard F. Corcoran Monday ordered a House Un-American Activities Committee hearing set for Tuesday be delayed but government attorneys appealed to a higher court.

Justice Department attorneys asked a three-member panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals to set aside a restraining order Corcoran issued.

The order said a judicial decision should first be made whether the hearing was constitutional.

NAC to Go Ahead

Despite the legal maneuvering, the committee planned to convene its hearing Tuesday morning "come hell or high water," according to one member. The committee is considering a bill to prohibit Americans from supplying aid to the Viet Cong.

Chief Judge David Bazelon of the Court of Appeals and two other Appeals Court judges, Charles Fahy and Walter M. Bastian, heard arguments from the government and from lawyers of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) which brought the original suit on behalf of two witnesses subpoenaed for the committee hearing.

The three-judge panel said it would take the government appeal under consideration and rule Tuesday.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Joseph Hannon asked the Appeals Court to issue a rarely invoked "writ of prohibition" to declare Corcoran's order null and void. He acknowledged that the writ was reserved for extraordinary cases but claimed that barring a congressional committee from acting clearly fell into that category.

Never

Hannon said no U.S. court had ever before prevented Congress from acting.

But ACLU attorney Arthur Kinoy of New York City, claimed Corcoran's action was not extraordinary and that he was merely upholding the right of freedom of speech for two citizens.

House Speaker John McCormack appeared stunned by Corcoran's order and immediately telephoned Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach. The government appeal from Corcoran's order came a short time later.

"A court, telling a congressional committee it can't hold a hearing?" the speaker asked in incredulous tones. "Why, we might as well not have any Congress at all!"

May Bring Ruling

Corcoran's order may lead to an eventual Supreme Court ruling on separation of powers between the legislative, judicial and executive branches of the government.

Corcoran's action also raised the question of whether witnesses could refuse to appear and safely rely on his order to protect them if the committee tried to hold them in contempt of Congress.

Corcoran, appointed to the federal bench about a year ago, issued the temporary injunction in response to a suit by two witnesses subpoenaed to appear before the committee. They are Dr. Allen M. Krebs and Walter D. Teague III, both of New York City.

The suit was filed on behalf of Krebs and Teague by the ACLU a long-time critic of the HUAC.

Representing the government at the hearing was Hannon. He said it would be unprecedented for a judge to issue an injunction against the hearings.

At the hour-long court hearing the ACLU attorneys argued that the HUAC's mandate directing it to investigate "propaganda" and "propaganda activities" that were un-American or subversive was vague and a threat to freedom of speech.

Corcoran's ruling was on the grounds that the mandate setting up the committee in the early days of World War II was possibly unconstitutional and deserved study. He said this "possible controversy" led him to create the three-judge panel.

Krebs is president of the Free University of New York, and Teague is chairman of the U.S. Committee To Aid the National Liberation Front in South Viet Nam.

Krebs and Teague were among 13 witnesses subpoenaed for the committee hearing organizations which have collected money, blood or supplies for the Viet Cong or sought to impede troop movements in this country.

Rally Here?

The Associated Press reported that an anti-HUAC protest rally is planned in Lincoln this week, as well as in Berkeley, Calif., Boston, New York, Chicago and Kansas City. The report could not be confirmed, but AP said Lincoln was listed by the National Committee to Defend Civil Liberties as one of the cities where a rally would be conducted.

School Board Took Action In Unannounced Meeting

By LUCILLE HUTCHINSON
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln Board of Education members met for un unannounced special meeting July 20 to approve a contract change permitting immediate district access to two new houses which will be used for classrooms this fall, it was learned by the Star Monday.

The half-hour special meeting came during a closed school board budget session, according to Supt. Steven Watkins.

The board is not required to announce its meetings, Watkins noted, although, he added, notice is always furnished to newsmen before regular board sessions. The schools also sometimes send notice of special meetings.

State deputy commissioner of education, Stan Holly, confirmed that there is no statutory requirement for Class IV school districts to post a public notice of a formal meeting. Lincoln's is a Class IV district.

The special meeting occurred only six days before the evening meeting and public hearing on the school board budget.

Minutes Cited

According to the minutes of the July 20 meeting, board members Ed Copple, John Lux, Robert Wekesser and Robert Magee voted to alter the school district's contract with Woodcraft Homes Corp. to purchase immediately two of the homes, located on Ammon Ave. between Leighton and Garland Sts., built for temporary classrooms in the Bethany area and pay for the other two upon completion. Absent from the meeting was James Stuart.

Board member Robert Ammon, who is chairman of the board of the Woodcraft firm did not vote on the matter.

The action on the Woodcraft contract was a minor change in a contract approved March 21 by the board. At that earlier public meeting Ammon's participation in the firm involved was not discussed.

Board attorney Willis Hecht, referring to the state statute concerning school officers participating in contracts with the school district, reported it was his opinion that Ammon did not have "such a financial interest as would disqualify him" in the matter.

A Corporation

The school board in the Woodcraft Homes deal, Hecht declared, is "contracting with a corporation, not an individual."

According to Nebraska law, "no school officer shall be a party to any oral or written school contract for building, furnishing supplies, or services in amounts in excess of $2,000 in any one school year . . .Provided further that ownership of less than one per cent of the outstanding stock of any one class shall not contitute an interest, direct or indirect, within the meaning of this section."

Ammon said the matter "is a transaction between the school district and the real estate company of which I am a stockholder and officer . . . I do not consider myself a party to a contract." Ammon declined to disclose the extent of his interest in the Woodcraft firm.

The minutes of the special meeting also show that the board took action, although not by a formal vote, on an offer from Ervin Peterson to sell slightly over three acres of land near Seacrest Field for a parking lot at a price of $13,800.

The minutes recorded that Ammon, chairman of the board's real estate committee, recommended the Lincoln district not purchase the land because it was "not thought to be of significant value."

'Not interested'

The board, according to the minutes, "asked Mr. Ammon to let Mr. Ervin Peterson know that the district is not interested."

Supt. Watkins reported that any business conducted in such a special meeting is "always ratified" at a regular session of the board. However, none of the matters discussed at the July 20 meeting have been ratified at meetings which have been held since that date, on July 26 and Aug. 4.

N.Y. Herald Tribune Bites Dust

New York (AP)— The New York Herald Tribune, which dated from the penny papers of Horace Greeley and James Gordon Bennett, became history Monday — 114 days after it last appeared in print.

Its death was announced by owners of the World Journal Tribune, Inc., a new publishing firm formed by a merger of the morning Tribune with the afternoon Journal American and the World Telegram & The Sun.

Matt Meyer, president of the corporation, read the Tribune obituary at a news conference, moments after the firm had advised newspaper unions of the decision.

Labor Difficulties

Labor difficulties had kept the corporation from publishing any of its papers.

Meyer, who said the company still hoped to publish its afternoon and Sunday newspapers, said, "A decision to terminate publication is probably the most difficult a newspaper has to face.

"No other decision was possible, however, after more than three months of unsuccessful effort to make arrangements for publication with all of our unions."

John Hay Whitney, who had controlled the Herald Tribune since Aug. 28, 1958 and is a partner in the new corporation, said, "Today is a day of mourning rather than one of recrimination and castigations."

With grim face, Whitney told a news conference the newspaper had lost 65 to 70% of its editorial employes.

"Almost every major publication and broadcasting network in this country has hired someone from the Herald Tribune in the past days," he added.

About 100 former Herald Tribune staffers were present as Whitney read his statement. They were visibly shaken.

Meyer said the Tribune's death would result in a loss of 800 more jobs. He said the World Journal Tribune had expected to publish its three papers with a total staff of 2,500.

An estimated 5,700 persons were employed on the three newspapers merged into the new corporation. Of these, about 1,700 were at the Herald Tribune.

Meyer and Thomas M. Laura, mailers union president who acted as spokesman for the union leaders, expressed hope at the news conference that agreements would be reached quickly and that publication of the afternoon and Sunday papers would begin.

(For more on closing of Herald Tribune see page 12.)

Board Of Equalization Fixes Rate At 10.67

. . . RECOMPUTATION CHANGES EARLY DECISION

The State Board of Equalization late Monday night set Nebraska's 1966 state property tax levy at 10.67 mills, a decrease of 1.06 mills from last year's levy due to property values increases.

State taxpayers will pay 10.67 less for each $1.000 of assessed valuation.

Earlier, State Tax Commissioner George Dworak computed the levy at 10.85 mills which was adopted by the board, but a recomputation and rechecking of the state's valuation total necessitated a midnight revision of the levy. The state's assessed valuation was set at $4,334,487,613 as compared to $3,834,944,306 for 1965, and increase of $500 million.

Set At 11:55 P.M.

Gov. Frank Morrison, Secretary of State Frank Marsh and Dworak constituted the board quorum which set the revised levy at 11:55 p.m.

The general fund levy of 6.37 mills is estimated to raise $27,608,775 in property tax dollars for general state government, estimated to cost $68,241,208 for the 1966-67 fiscal year. The remaining $41,603,556 is estimated to come from miscellaneous receipts other than property taxes.

The 4.30 mills of fixed levies set by the 1965 Legislature will account for an additional $18,637,016 in tax dollars.

Special Series

These special levies and amounts to be raised are: state building fund, 3.20 mills, $13,869,400; state office building fund, .20 mills, $866,837; service annuity fund, .50 mills, $2,167,093; agresearch fund, .10 mills, $433,419, and state park fund, .30 mills, $1,300,256.

The general fund levy contains a 3½% cushion to cover the two per cent the state must pay to the counties in collection fees for collecting the tax and the lag in tax collections.

The maximum permissible cushion is five per cent. Last year the board used four per cent.

No Explanation

Dworak said there was no already explanation for the last-minute recomputations other than "we tried to do three days' work in 10 hours."

The state budget for the 1966-67 fiscal year is the highest in Nebraska history, topping last year's budget by about $1.4 million, but the general fund need of $27,608,775 is $800,000 less than last year.

The total budget was pushed to a record level because of the additional money generated by the special fixed levies.

Board members include Gov. Morrison, Dworak, Marsh, Auditor Ray Johnson and Treasurer Fred Sorensen.

Business Property Not Exempt In 13 Counties

Commercial and industrial property in Douglas County and 12 other counties, unlike such property in the rest of the state, will not be exempt from property valuation changes imposed by the State Board of Equalization Monday.

The board ordered that it urban and suburban valuations changes not affect any commercial or industrial property, but state Tax Commissioner George Dworak reported assessors in 13 counties failed to correctly fill out their property valuation abstracts submitted to his office.

Douglas County broke out its suburban industrial valuations, including the $30 million Western Electric plant outside of Omaha, but failed to supply valuation totals on urban commercial and industrial and suburban commercial.

Dworak said county assessors were notified Feb. 21, and again on April 13, that abstracts must be completed to show industrial and commercial valuations as required by the 1965 law.

"The Attorney General said the levy must be set Monday so the valuation increases must be applied to all property which can't be identified otherwise in the county abstracts," the tax commissioner said.

Custer, Douglas, Dawson, Fillmore, Holt, Howard, Richardson and Wayne Counties are all pegged for urban and suburban valuation increases which will also apply to any industrial and commercial property within these categories.

However, the improperly completed abstracts will permit commercial and industrial developments in Antelope, Cedar, Sheridan, Sherman and Valley to receive valuation decreases authorized for urban and suburban property.

Council Defers Action On Low-Rent Housing

The City Council Monday deferred action on a proposal that would place before Lincoln voters the question of cooperation with the Lincoln Housing authority and the federal government on low-rent housing. For this story and details of other council action see page 6.

Mercury Is Stolen From 57 Houses

Police report that 57 houses at Lincoln Air Force Base were burglarized sometime early Monday. Taken from the vacant houses was the mercury from inside electrical switches.

The unusual sort of burglary was a first in the Lincoln area, but follows a type of burglary which has been plagueing police on a national level.

Mercury is at an all-time high price. FBI reports show that the black market price for mercury makes its theft highly profitable.

Though the houses burglarized at LAFB are not yet in the city limits and are therefore not yet under Lincoln police jurisdiction, the Lincoln police have nevertheless offered their aid in trying to locate the burglars.

Top Machinists Press To Get Air Pact Okay

Washington (AP)— Machinists union officials accepted terms Monday to end the 39-day-old airlines strike. Then they pressed a campaign for rank-and-file approval of a contract they called the best ever won by any union.

The 35,400 striking members of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists are scheduled to vote Friday on the tentative agreement — the second submitted to them in 18 days.

Meanwhile, the House Rules Committee delayed action on a Senate-passed bill to force the strikers to return to the jobs they left July 8. It appeared there would be no further congressional action pending the vote's outcome.

The settlement was reached early Monday after weary negotiators had worked 20 straight hours at the Labor Department seeking voluntary settlement of the walkout which has paralyzed five major airlines — Eastern, National, Northwest, Trans World and United — at a cost of nearly $400 million in lost revenues and wages alone.

Terms of the negotiators' agreement were kept secret until the membership is given details, but informed estimates placed the total three-year costs at about $90 million in wages and fringe benefits.

Top mechanics now make $3.52 an hour plus fringe benefits which bring the total to around $4.

The settlement is also believed to contain a cost-of-living wage escalator clause. This has been one of the union's key demands from the beginning of the long dispute.

Precautions

Even though union officials were enthusiastic over the agreement, they took precautionary steps to encourage the membership to ratify the proposed contract.

On July 29 a tentative agreement engineered by the White House was announced by President Johnson with fanfare, including a nationally televised broadcast, but the membership overwhelmingly rejected the proposal which would have provided an estimated increase of 72 cents an hour in wages and fringe benefits over a three-year contract.

Union officials indicated they believe the 3-1 adverse membership vote came because the workers did not realize what it contained.

Two Killed In Macy Crash

Macy (AP) — Two persons were killed Monday night in a one-car mishap on a county road about five miles south and two miles west of Macy.

State Safety Patrol Trooper Dale Ruppert identified the victims as 18-year-old Clifton Morris and 6-week-old John Mesteth Jr., both of Macy.

The trooper said the baby's mother, 31-year-old Susette Morris of Macy, was the driver of the auto. She suffered cuts and bruises and was hospitalized at Winnebago.

Car Plunges; 1 Man Killed, Second Hurt

A young man was killed and another man critically injured early Tuesday morning in a one-car crash at the Burlington Ave. bridge between A and O.

A witness said the car was northbound on Burlington and had passed him when the driver of the death car hit his brakes as he approached the bridge. The car plunged off the east bank of Middle Creek about 50 feet to the water below.

The impact of the crash disintegrated the car. The dead man's body was found partially wrapped around the bridge. The other man was found in the water. Police were probing the wreckage to determine if there were any other passengers in the car.

Oil Depot Hit Near Haiphong

Saigon (AP) — U.S. Navy planes Monday hit an oil storage depot near North Viet Nam's major port of Haiphong, the U.S. command announced Tuesday.

A spokesman said planes from the aircraft carrier Oriskany struck at the Po Lei oil storage area 19 miles northwest of Haiphong. Pilots reported they left the area covered in dark smoke with a large orange fireball rising 1,500 feet, he said.

The U.S. command also announced the loss of another Air Force F105 Thunderchief over North Viet Nam Sunday, bringing to three the number of planes lost that day. It was the 340th U. S. plane lost over North Viet Nam since raids against the north began in February 1965.

Pilot Missing

A spokesman said the plane went down 110 miles northwest of Vinh from unknown causes. He said the pilot bailed out but could not be rescued and is listed as missing in action.

The pilot of the two other Thunderchiefs lost Sunday also are listed as missing.

On the ground, U.S. air cavalrymen dug in under a monsoon downpour Monday night near the Ia Drang Valley in South Viet Nam's central highlands after losing contact with North Vietnamese troops they had been trying to trap in a 24-hour battle.

Rocket Chopper

Before the fighting slackened, Red groundfire downed a U.S. rocket helicopter, killing its four-man crew. The action took place about 200 miles northeast of Saigon.

Two Viet Cong attacks were reported in the Saigon area. In one, a guerrilla force attacked the command post of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division with mortars and small arms fire Monday night.

A spokesman said the post, at Lai Khe, about 25 miles north of Saigon, was under fire for two hours, but American casualties were light.

In the other attack, Vietnamese police reported a military convoy was ambushed by about 20 Viet Cong Tuesday and two U.S. servicemen and a Vietnamese militiaman were killed.

Saigon Outskirts

The police said the attack took place at Nha Be near a police post on the outskirts of Saigon. U.S. military spokesmen said they had no information on the ambush.

The police said the convoy was on its way to an oil depot at Nha Be. They said they found three trails of blood, indicating three of the communist guerrillas either were killed or badly wounded.

U.S. commanders on the battle scene in the central highlands said the remnants of possibly three North Vietnamese battalions with a regimental command post held positions to the west of where the air cavalrymen had dug in. The American commanders said they regarded any forthcoming fight as the climactic battle of the war in the strategic area.

Near Cambodia

The North Vietnamese were reported about two miles from Cambodia's northern border. A North Vietnamese battalion numbers between 300 and 600 men, depending on its mission.

There were these other developments in the war:

—The U.S. command reported the loss of two more American planes over North Viet Nam Sunday, bringing to 17 the number lost in eight days and 339 the total shot down since raids began in February 1965. Both pilots were reported missing.

—U.S. and South Vietnamese officials investigated reports of two more mistaken attacks on friendly villages, taking a toll of nine civilians killed and 50 others wounded. The attacks supposedly were carried out Friday and Saturday. The U.S. command said it had no evidence immediately that Americans were responsible.

Chu Phong Chain

The air cavalrymen were dug in along the Chu Phong mountain chain southwest of the division's base at Pleiku and west of Plei Me, site of the North Vietnamese attack on a U.S. Special Forces camp that touched off the bloodiest battle of the war last November for the cavalry troopers.

Units of the 1st Air Cavalry Division had been in the area since late July on a hunt and kill mission to keep the enemy off stride in any attempt to cut across the central highlands and to block infiltration from the Ho Chi Minh Trail from North Viet Nam.

They encountered the North Vietnamese Sunday afternoon and fought them into the night.

Israel, Syria Clash Again

Tel Aviv, Israel (AP)—Syrian jets attacked two Israeli patrol boats in the Sea of Galilee Monday and two were shot down, including a high speed MIG21 in an air battle, the Israeli army reported.

A Syrian army communique made no mention of air losses. It said Syrian planes wrecked three Israeli patrol boats in the sea and set eight tried to intervene but "our air force was on the alert," the communique added.

The Israelis said one of their patrol boats was destroyed in the plane attack.

Gen. Izhak Rabin, Israeli army chief of staff, said he considered the MIG attack "a very serious belligerent act by the Syrians."

Both sides later consented to a cease-fire.

The Syrian communication described the clash as "a repetition of mounting Israeli aggressive provocations" and charged "imperialist powers" encouraged the attacks.

This was an apparent reference to the U.N. Security Council's failure last month to condemn Israel for an air attack on a Syrian construction project to divert tributaries of the Jordan River July 14.

Top Marine Dissociates Self From War Prediction Stories

Washington (AP) — Marine Commandant Gen. Wallace M. Greene dissociated himself Monday from purported studies said to have concluded that with the present U.S. strength in Viet Nam, the war would last eight years, or five years if the number of troops was boosted to 750,000.

"I can say that I am not prepared to speculate here on the number of troops that might be required or on the length of time the war might last," Greene told a Pentagon news conference.

Greene acknowledged that he met with newsmen in Saigon on a visit to Viet Nam last week but said "reports which came from that meeting were not correct."

The general repeatedly declined to answer whether he had speculated for newsmen in Saigon that 750,000 men might be needed to terminate the conflict.

At one point, a newsman suggested that Greene was not being completely candid about what was said at his Saigon briefing.

"I feel that I am leveling with you very adequately," the general replied. "I am not prepared to speculate this morning and I am not saying that I speculated there," he said.

Greene gave an optimistic report on his two-week trip to Viet Nam and said, "We can and will win this war."

Then he swung into the purported studies situation saying he wanted to "clear something up."

"There were several news reports emanating from Saigon early last week relative to some alleged studies and on the future of the war in Viet Nam," Greene said.

"There were also reports that I attended a deep backgrounder for some media representatives in Saigon. I did.

"However, I did not make any reference to any Defense Department or Joint Chiefs of Staff studies, or any other study which contains conclusions on the length of the war or the number of U.S. forces required to conduct the war," he said.

"I know of no study which draws the conclusions reported and I will not speculate on the length of the war or the force levels required to support it."

3 Main Types

A "deep backgrounder" such as Greene cited, is one of three principal types of conferences used by officials with newsmen.

Used foremost is the news conference, where anything said may be quoted directly. A "backgrounder" is a conference in which remarks by the official are not to be attributed to an individual but only to official sources. In the "deep backgrounder" reporters may publish the information given them but not attribute it to officials or even say that a conference was held.

Scotland Yard Charges Man With Killing 3 Detectives

London (AP) — Scotland Yard announced Monday night it has charged a 36-year-old unemployed man with the murder of three unarmed detectives that touched off the biggest manhunt in London's history.

A spokesman said John Edward Witney has been charged on three counts and will be arraigned Tuesday. The three detectives were gunned down Friday when they stopped to question three men near Wormwood Scrubs Prison.

The charges against Witney alleged that he was responsible "with others" for the murders of detectives Christopher Tippett, David Stanley Wombell and Geoffrey Roger Fox.

Police mounted the manhunt for three men, who they said are known to be associated with big criminal gangs operating in the capital.

20,000 In Hunt

Nearly 20,000 police and detectives had been thrown into the hunt since the three Yard men, members of the capital's undercover squad against bigtime crime, were shot.

Witnesses said the policemen were slain as they stopped to question three men in an aged, pale blue Standard Vanguard registration number PGT 726. It had a souped-up engine capable of more than 90 miles an hour.

It was found Sunday in a dingy garage underneath a railway arch near London's Waterloo Station. Police were tipped of the hideaway by a woman.

A team of scientists from the Yard's forensic laboratory Monday started meticulous examination of every part of the car. The latest scientific devices are being used to recover fibers, dust, grit and hairs from the car's upholstery and mats.

Much Information

A murder squad spokesman disclosed there has been an almost unprecedented flow of information from London's underworld. British criminals traditionally avoid — and are revolted by — cop killing.

Since 1940 there has been an average of only one policeman a year murdered on duty. British police, except in rare circumstances, are armed only with short truncheons.

Police said well - known criminals have been walking into police stations throughout London to donate sums, large and small, to a fund being raised for the dead men's families. Two of them were married, with children.

Convictions Of 2 On Death Row 13 Years Reversed

New Orleans (AP)—In another of its landmark decisions, a federal appeals court Monday reversed the convictions of two Negroes who have been in solitary confinement on death row for 13 years—a modern record.

The 5th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that Edgar Labat and Clifton A. Poret, both of New Orleans, did not get a fair trial because Negroes were excluded from the trial jury.

The case was the last of eight in which the appeals court set out to shape up guidelines for selection of grand juries and trial juries in Deep South states.

Can Be Retried

Reversal leaves Labat and Poret subject to reindictment and retrial. They were convicted of raping a white woman.

The eight cases were heard in a rare en banc session — that is, by all members of the 5th Circuit. In this one, four judges formed the majority, two agreed with the decision but disagreed about some of the legal points involved, and one dissented.

Labat, a rough-hewn poet, became involved in international controversy when the prison abruptly stopped his "pen pal" correspondence with a housewife in Stockholm, Sweden.

A letter from a prison official said Negroes could not correspond with whites. Other officials later said this was a mistake—but that prison rules do forbid access to any prisoner on death row by anyone except immediate family and legal or spiritual counselors and the ban would stand.

The letter ban was upheld in a court fight.

'Endless'

Appeals for Labat have been to the U.S. Supreme Court four times, leading one district judge to complain that the case "seems to have no end."

In their special concurrence, Judges Griffin B. Bell of Atlanta and James P Coleman of Ackerman, Miss., said "piecemeal appeals" must be stopped.

"Having joined in the reversal, it may be well to add that little is apt to come of new indictments," said Bell. "It is unlikely that adequate proof would be forthcoming under the facts of this case for conviction at this late date."

In his dissent, Judge Walter P. Gewin of Tuscaloosa, Ala., noted that the state denied excluding Negroes from juries and that the appeal was heavily based on the statistical record.

Judges of the majority were Elbert P. Tuttle, Atlanta, chief judge of the circuit; John R. Brown, Houston; John M. Wisdom, New Orleans; and Homer Thornberry of Austin, Tex.

Space Agency 'All Set For Big Show'

Pasadena, Calif. (AP)—"We're all set for the big show," a U.S. space agency spokesman said Monday after Lunar Orbiter radioed stored pictures in a test of gear expected to televise a hidden area of the moon Thursday.

"The test photos were excellent," said a spokesman for the agency's Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va., which is directing the 850-pound spacecraft through space flight facilities at Jet Propulsion Laboratory here.

The photographs were of a model of the moon, stored in Lunar Orbiter's television camera prior to last Wednesday's launch. Monday's transmission test lasted about 20 minutes and came as the craft swung around the moon at a height of 117 miles—the distance from which it will start taking its first actual pictures Thursday.

These pictures, to be developed automatically on board the craft and radioed to earth Thursday afternoon, are expected to show an area called Site Zero never before photographed, on the extreme right edge of the moon.

Some of the photographs are to be converted immediately into television images and relayed to network audiences. Others will be relayed later.

A spokesman said television viewers could expect to see Thursday dozens of pictures, each a fragment of one of 16 photographs covering an area 1,472 by 78 miles.

Transmissions from Lunar Orbiter are scheduled between 3:18 p.m. and 4:03 p.m. CST, and between 6:58 p.m. and 7:23 p.m CST Thursday.

Loup Valley Flood Topped 1947 Record

Latest High Waters Reported 3 Feet Above Old Peak Mark

Columbus (AP)—Officials of Loup Public power District reported Monday that the weekend flood in the Loup Valley was approximately three feet higher than the 1947 flood which has stood as a record.

They estimated the Loup River flow at the peak of the flood as 90,000 second-feet. That compares with a flow of about 250 second-feet on the Loup early in July.

Royal Clark, chief hydraulic engineer for the district, said damage from the flood included several thousand feet of canal breaks, two bridges washed out, a large dredge damaged, several roads washed out and a number of transmission lines damaged.

John Preston, Loup general manager, estimated the damage to district facilities as about half a million dollars.

He said one or more large scale on-river storage reservoirs would have prevented the flood.

He said the power canal system, damaged when flood waters topped a dam at the headworks near Genoa, would be back in operation in a week to 10 days although complete repairs may take several months.

Because of the storage capabilities of two reservoirs, Lake Babcock and Lake North near Columbus, Loup powerhouses were generating electricity Monday and were able to meet peak loads, Preston said.

In a special meeting Monday afternoon, the City Council decided against a mass immunization program against typhoid fever. Dr. E. A. Rogers, the state health director, said it is probably too late for immunization to be effective in the event there was danger.

The council adopted a resolution requesting Gov. Frank Morrison to declare Columbus a disaster area, thus making it eligible for low interest loans.

The council suggested the Platte County Board and other governmental subdivisions in the lower Loup Basin do likewise.

The council also requested the Corps of Engineers to reevaluate the feasibility of the reservoir upstream on the Loup. Engineers previously had reported after a study that a proposed reservoir at Fullerton would not be feasible.

Flood Said 'Tribute' To Sen. Curtis

By the Associated Press

Gov. Frank Morrison said Monday the flooding of the Cedar and Loup Rivers valley is a "tribute to the ineffectiveness" of U.S. Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb.

He said the federal government has not initiated a single reclamation project in the state in the past seven years, and "the primary responsibility rests with our representatives in Washington."

Morrison is the Democratic nominee for Curtis' Senate seat.

The governor said Curtis was quoted as saying following a tour of the flooded region that he would ask the U.S. Corps of Engineers for a report on the causes of the flooding and possible solutions.

"Every high school student in Nebraska knows what caused that flood," Morrison said. "We had a heavy rain and inadequate water retention structures.

"We don't need any report from the Corps of Engineers to tell us what caused the flood and what needs to be done."

WAGNER'S LAKE . . . resident moves out via boat.

Wagner's, Stire's Lake Residents Cleaning Up Water Soaked Homes

By JOHN LEE
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Columbus — "This was a beautiful, peaceful, serene view here Saturday afternoon when we pulled out," said Frank Knox from the backyard of his home.

That was before the "water came through everywhere."

Residents of the Wagner's Lake and Stire's Lake developments were finally able to return to their soaked homes Monday.

Some had little to go back to. Others still had to swim, wade or ford muddy waters to reach the houses.

Several of the homes were washed entirely off their foundations, others were partially gone or crumbling.

The Knox home, set higher than some of the others, had water four inches deep through the living room, though it had been sandbagged and the furniture placed on saw horses.

In places, small boats plied Wagner's Lake carrying loads of water-logged furniture to higher ground where it would have a chance to dry.

Scoop Out Mud

Discouraged residents waded knee deep in places to carry furniture out while others scooped mud and debris out of their living quarters.

Water flowed around the two lakes so an observer couldn't tell where one left off and another began. Even Pawnee Park and a golf course were included as the mass of water from the flooded Loup River began to recede.

Wagner's Lake, on the southwest outskirts of Columbus, is built up with some 300 homes, the majority of which are summer and weekend hide-aways. Stire's Lake embraces 57 permanent dwellings in the $12,000 to $30,000 class. The area has been built up in the last 10 years.

Only residents and Civil Defense and Red Cross workers were being allowed into the area.

Elsewhere in the southern part of the city, citizens were able to return to their homes Monday.

As Red Cross volunteers distributed cleaning materials and equipment, furniture was set out to dry in yard after yard.

Even downtown businessmen were involved, pumping out flooded basements after water ran into streets further north than it has pushed in previous floods.

"This is worse than the one in 1947," commented a housewife who escaped to higher ground Saturday evening, then had to move even further when the flood reached that refuge point.

Mrs. Bert Zakrzewski was busy moving her and her husband's five children back into the home next to the park that, luckily, was built up several feet and had no water inside.

Red Cross personnel remained on the job at disaster headquarters in the city auditorium, from which they had delivered 1,600 meals to residents and workers during the crisis.

The Red Cross said a total of 1,000 homes in Columbus sustained some damage. Two homes were destroyed, 25 had major damage.

"We estimate 1,000 families were affected in the Columbus area alone and more in the rural areas, particularly around Genoa," said Victoria Gage, Red Cross representative in charge of relief operations.

Small Business Administration representatives were in Columbus to make damage estimate reports, with the expectation the area would be declared a disaster area.

State highway workers expected to complete temporary repairs on a washed-out bridge on Highway 81 south of Columbus so traffic could be moving by early Tuesday.

Nebraska's Centennial Raft To Be Preserved For 2017, 2067 Events

New Orleans, La. (AP)—The U.S. Centennial, Nebraska's only ship in its Navy, will be preserved in mothballs for the state's 150th anniversary in 2017 and on its bi-centennial in 2067.

The brave little ship—actually a raft 24-feet long-docked here Saturday ending a month-long voyage down the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers.

Representative of the mayor and the dock board, the Louisiana Historical Society, the Coast Guard and the Navy greeted the crew of the nation's only landlocked Navy.

Adm. Don H. Shriner, director of the Centennial Commission, represented Nebraska Gov. Frank B. Morrison and spoke for the crew.

Dressed in red jackets bearing the official seal of the Nebraska Centennial and red hats, the crew was comprised of Richard Gallentine, Tom Moderow, Mark Hansen and Glen Friendt.

Nebraska's Centennial picks up steam next spring. The ship of state will be shown around Nebraska and at functions and ceremonies in nearby states.

Services Tuesday For Mrs. Bowen, Senator's Mother

Red Cloud (AP)—Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Tuesday at the First Methodist Church for Mrs. Clyde Bowen, 76, mother of State Sen. Kenneth Bowen of Red Cloud.

She died at a local hospital Saturday night following a year-long illness.

Other survivors include her husband; another son, Richard of Red Cloud; a daughter, Mrs. Gladys Crook of Ogallala; eight grandchildren; four great-grandchildren, two brothers and two sisters.

Omaha (AP)—Cliff Dale, former principal of York High School in York, has been named assistant principal at Central High School, the Omaha District announced Monday.

G. E. Berthold, Ex-Nebraska City Florist, Is Dead

Nebraska City (UPI) — Funeral services will be held here Wednesday for Gustav E. Berthold, 87, prominent local florist.

Services will be at 10:30 a.m. in the Peterson Mortuary, with burial in Wyuka Cemetery here.

A native of Reinsburg, Germany, Mr. Berthold started a floral business here in 1909 and continued until his retirement.

He was a member of the United Church of Christ and the Eagles and Elks Lodges.

Survivors include his wife, Christina; sons, Otto and Erwin of Nebraska City, Arthur of Park Rapids, Minn., and Walter of Grand Island; a brother, Eric of Denver; 11 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

125 Negroes On Omaha's Faculty

Omaha (AP)—Supt .Paul Miller reported Monday that the Omaha School District currently is employing 225 Negroes of whom 125 are teachers.

For the coming school year, he said, Negroes will be teaching in 21 of the district's 94 schools.

Fullerton And Columbus Meets Set This Week

Representatives of state and federal agencies will meet with local officials and residents of flood-stricken central and northeast Nebraska Tuesday and Wednesday.

Gov. Frank Morrison said special meetings have been scheduled for 7:20 p.m. Tuesday at the Fullerton court house and for 7 p.m. the following night at the Columbus City Auditorium.

He said the meetings will determine what assistance is available through the state and federal agencies to help the effort to recover from the flooding.

Disaster Label Requested For Four Counties

Gov. Frank Morrison recommended Monday that Nance, Boone, Greeley and Platte Counties be declared disaster areas by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Such designations would permit farmers in those counties to temporarily graze livestock on diverted acreage and conservation reserve land.

"Rainfall up to 12 inches fell in the stricken area, causing severe property damage and creating an extreme emergency," the governor said in a telegram to agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman.

". . . Severe flash flooding . . . has destroyed large number of livestock, feed and fences and intermingled producers cattle."

Crops Progressing Despite Floods

State-federal crop observers said Monday last week's heavy rains caused considerable crop damage in central and east central Nebraska but crop development generally continues to progress well.

They said the corn, sorghum, soybean, sugar beet, potato and dry bean crops are generally showing good to excellent development.

Rainfall totals during the past week were near normal in the southeast and east central sections of the state but ran from three to six times normal elsewhere, they said.

In their weekly report, state-federal crop experts said the stage of maturity of the corn crop ranges from pollination to soft dough, with some of the damaged crop in the drought-stricken areas being chopped for green feed or being cut for silage.

They said a few dry bean fields have been infected with blight while some potato fields have been harvested with most yields relatively high.

Seed bed preparations for fall sown small grains are well under way, but wet weather has slowed summer fallowing operations in portions of the Panhandle and southwest where some fields have become quite weedy.

They reported that nearly 30% of the third cutting of alfalfa has been harvested.

Heavy Stock Losses

They said the flooding of the Cedar and Loup River Valleys caused some heavy livestock losses, but livestock production elsewhere has been very good.

Pasture and range feed conditions showed some improvement during the past week.

Rainfall received throughout Nebraska during the week ending Monday included:

Judge Finds Labor Union In Contempt

Scottsbluff (AP) — District Judge Ted R. Feidler Monday found Scottsbluff Laborers Local 880 in contempt of court for violation of a restraining order prohibiting picketing of a Wiedemann Brothers Construction Co. project at Hiram Scott College.

The union had been ordered to appear Monday and show cause why it should not be found in contempt.

The union maintained the Scotts Bluff District Court did not have jurisdiction, and that the order was void. Business agent J. D. Simmons said he acted on advice of attorneys for the International Union of Hod Carriers and Common Laborers when he ordered pickets back to the project after the restraining order was issued last week.

The judge said the restraining order must be obeyed regardless of whether the court has jurisdiction.

Judge Feidler said a fine of $1,000 a day would be levied against the order and bench warrants issued for pickets if they appear at the site before a hearing Thursday on a temporary injunction.

The judge said the matter of jurisdiction will be dealt with at that time.

Our Share Of The Sky

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

You may have no stock in Frontier Airlines, Mohawk, Central or any of the 10 other regional airlines that serve the nation but you have an interest in them, just the same. And thus, you have an interest in a recent story about these lines appearing in the Wall Street Journal. Your interest stems from the fact that air travel is a vital part of the community in which you live.

Even the man or woman who never flies, for whatever their reason, should be concerned about air service for their community because so much of the nation's business depends upon such travel. The shipment of goods and the movement of personnel for a wide variety of reasons are related in an ever expanding degree to air transportation which, in turn, has a substantial influence upon the growth and prosperity of a region. Thus, Lincoln must look to the quality of its air service just as it must consider the many other services that are a part of its total community. Adequate air service can be counted right along with the availability of a labor force, sufficient natural resources, an attractive tax situation, good industrial locations and other such factors.

Everybody's Problem

Since Lincoln is served by one of the 13 regional airlines, it should be interested in the condition and prospects of these lines. According to the Wall Street Journal, such lines are aiming for and likely will get a bigger and bigger share of the airways.

This, the regionals will do with improved service, more jets, extension of their lines and inauguration of more nonstop flights between major metropolitan areas. Lincoln should not only be aware of this but should be building a foundation on which it can obtain its share of this growth. This, of course, is the objective of the community leadership, both public and private, that is working in this area of the city's concern.

The regionals, reports the Journal, are "generally optimistic about the future. Although they currently account for less than 10 per cent of the scheduled domestic airline business, the regionals are on a course that may sharply increase their share of the sky over the next five years . . .

"This year, the regionals expect to earn a total of more than $13.2 million, up about 6.3 per cent from the $12.4 million of 1965, and their total revenue is seen climbing to more than $312.7 million, about 6.1 per cent above the $294.6 million of last year

"In the important measurement of revenue-passenger miles (one passenger carried one mile), the regional airlines predict a 15.7 per cent gain this year from 1965, to nearly 3.1 billion from 2.6 billion . . ."

The picture for the regionals, while good, is still not as promising as that for the trunk lines. The fact remains, however, that the regionals seem by now to have carved for themselves a permanent and growing role in the national transportation picture. All of them are working toward the day of total elimination of federal subsidies and it is not far off for some of them. They will never replace the main trunk lines but they are assured of an important subsidiary role, which makes them an important part of the communities such as Lincoln in which they operate.

Their importance is demonstrated, too, in a recent professional analysis of air service in Nebraska. The survey in its comment on Lincoln stated that "Lincoln's present air service pattern, with respect to its major points of interest, may be characterized as provincial."

It has good out-of-state express service, including some non-stop, to Kansas City and Denver only, and one-stop service to Moines. As a result of its restricted service pattern, and the high proportion of Lincoln air travelers obliged to resort to connecting services, air traffic exchanged between Lincoln and some of the major centers with which it has important community of interest appears to be substantially underdeveloped—cities such as Chicago, New York, Washington-Baltimore and Detroit."

To remedy the situation, the survey recommends discussion with United, the one trunk serving Lincoln with connecting service, leading to expanded service. As a second alternative, the survey suggests the possibility of competitive trunk service from the East. As a final possibility, the survey suggests extension of Frontier in Chicago and consideration of service from Central, a regional line serving the Southwest. In pursuit of improving service, Lincoln can point to an increase in enplaned passengers at Lincoln from 16,103 in 1954 to 64,897 just 12 years later.

Three Courses Suggested

It is obvious that air transportation will be an important part of our future and that its potential is today not being fully realized through lack of adequate trunk line service. Either this shortage should be remedied or the city should exert every effort to improve itself through expanded regional line service.

"I Said I'd Do Something About That Cat And I'm Doing It—I'm Letting You Get In There And Face It"

Testing Environmental Influence

Both the House and Senate have now passed a multiple appropriations bill containing, among other things, the adminstration's rent subsidy program. The measure must now be compromised between the two bodies, with the House version currently $118 million under the Senate total of $14.1 billion.

The rent subsidy program will actually be a rather small one, giving most recipients only a small part of their housing funds needs. Its impact is expected to be felt in the upgrading of home environment among lower income groups and perhaps in effecting a slow elimination of slum conditions as they exist in various parts of the nation.

It will not be an entirely new experiment as there are currently low income families living in housing under government subsidy through existing welfare programs. The scale of such activities will be expanded, however, with the bill now passed.

It has long been felt that environment is a vital factor in some of the human problems of the nation. It has, in fact, been fairly well proven through other housing programs now on the books. The manner in which an individual lives has an important bearing on his attitude and behavior as a member of adult society.

The purpose of rent subsidies is to upgrade the housing level and thereby motivate the individuals involved to higher personal achievement. It is a psychological as well as an economic approach to the problem of the economically deprived. We can be assured that it will not work in all cases but we can also hope that it will bear fruit in a majority of cases. If the program works, it will be a small price to pay for the cause of human welfare and we will not have lost a great deal if it proves ineffective.

Corn Production On Balance

It is estimated that the corn carry over this year will be 1 billion bushels. This is considered the ideal amount for America's ever normal granary.

It also indicates that if present estimates hold there will be more corn acres released for production next year.

This is based on the original USDA crop estimate which expected 4.3 billion bushels to be produced this year. But this estimate was marred by drought in the eastern corn belt. The estimated production is now down to 3.9 billion bushels.

This will reduce the carryover because 4.3 billion bushels will be consumed this year. A part of this is due to expanded exports, for in 1966 the U.S.A. committed 725 million bushels for overseas demand. This compares with an average of 450 million export bushels during the past seven years.

The growth of livestock feeding in this country accounts for most of the remaining demand.

If these figures hold up until the end of the year, a production of 3.9 billions in 1967 will cause too great a shrink in the carryover. The probability is an increase in corn allotment next spring.

The nation finally has its production in balance quite in contrast to earlier years when the surplus was mounting. With all of the complaining about any farm program, it will have to be conceded that the present one has succeeded in eliminating the heavy surpluses and corn production is levelling out to a calculable amount year by year.

One thing can intervene. The technology of production is steadily producing better yields per acre. That may work against a marked increase in allotted acres.

The Berlin Wall

Five years ago this past weekend the communist leadership of East Germany began building a wall, not to keep West Germans out of East Germany, but to keep East Germans from fleeing to West Germany.

They had cause to do this because more than 3 million East Germans had fled to the West in the time intervening after the close of World War II.

In the five years since the first stone was laid the wall has been completed and refined. It now has 200 pill boxes and bunkers, almost as many lookout towers. It maintains 200 dog cages and 100 searchlights.

This was sufficient to end an almost total walkout but not sufficient to stop the more determined.

The example of millions fleeing East Germany's communist society is no recommendation for that way of life. The construction of such a formidable wall to curb such wholesale flight serves history well by concrete and lasting evidence of popular dissatisfaction. Communism lost by comparison and the presence of the wall makes that fact rather permanent.

There have been other walls in history. Examples are the Roman wall across northern England. And again there is the great wall of China. But significantly these walls were to protect against raids from the outside. The Romans built their wall to keep out the Scots and preserve the peace in Roman England. The Chinese with their wall acted against forays from invaders. The Berlin wall is unique in that it was designed for the opposite purpose.

Despite such a damning fact the East German hierarchy last week end observed a celebration of the wall—a wall built to keep people under circumstances many of them could not stomach. Never was failure so greatly honored.

DREW PEARSON

Pearson Adds To Love Affair Yarn

WASHINGTON—Now that Jonathon Daniels has revealed the secret romance in the life of Franklin D. Roosevelt, further details can be told. In his new book, "The Time Between The Wars," Daniels describes the love affair between Lucy Mercer and the late president when FDR was assistant secretary of the Navy in the Wilson administration.

Lucy's father was an Army major and she herself was engaged in Red Cross work during part of her affair with FDR. It all happened during those energetic, idealistic days when the United States was playing its first part in world affairs, and young Roosevelt was building up the Navy for the time when it might be used against the submarines of Kaiser Wilhelm. He was not unaware of the part which another Roosevelt, his cousin Teddy, played as assistant secretary of the Navy—a springboard which helped catapult him into the White House.

Eleanor Roosevelt discovered the romance rather abruptly when, driving through Virginia, she saw her husband and Lucy in a parked car.

The affair did not come to an end without a severe wrench and some deep wounds. The late President had married his distant cousin, Eleanor, after she had met him at a teenage dance, and she used to tell the story of how she, an ugly duckling, made up her mind then that she was going to marry her handsome cousin.

She had borne Roosevelt four children by the time he fell in love with Lucy Mercer, and the fifth, John, was on the way, Mrs. Roosevelt was not one to give up easily. And she knew that her dashing young husband had more than his wife and children to sacrifice—his political ambition.

"If you want to be President, Franklin," she told her husband very sweetly, "You'll have to take me with you."

One of the friends who stood with Eleanor Roosevelt at the time was Elsie Cobb Wilson, a member of Washington's gay young set in the days of the Wilson administration. Later Elsie married Col. Louis Little, a dashing Marine officer.

It was Elsie who intervened with Lucy Mercer and helped persuade her to do her part in breaking off the romance. FDR probably would have put his ambition ahead of his heart anyway. But it was Lucy, thanks to Elsie Wilson Little, who took the initiative.

Elsie Little remained bitter at President Roosevelt for passing over her husband, claiming that he always resented the part she played in persuading Lucy Mercer to leave Franklin.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Nixon Far Ahead For '68 Campaign

WASHINGTON—The word that Richard Nixon is starting his presidential campaign and is soon to open a Washington office underscores a question asked here with increasing urgency: What is the alternative to Lyndon Johnson?

Republicans who regard the prospect with nothing but dread nevertheless see the likelihood of a Johnson-Nixon campaign two years hence. Because there is no active, serious challenger determined to take over the party and win the nomination, it will go to Nixon as it were by default. Perhaps never before has one of the two great parties been so lacking in men of stature who were willing, eager and politically positioned to seek the highest office in the land.

The only other Republican contender is Gov. George Romney of Michigan. Romney, absorbed in his own campaign for re-election, has thus far not moved onto the national scene except in a limited way. In the light of the extraordinarily difficult task of putting together a nationwide organization to round up delegates, it may already be too late for Romney.

This is an undertaking that cannot be carried out by sending telegrams and letters around the country enlisting workers, nor even by, say, a conference of moderate to liberal governors. It calls for know-how and intimate knowledge of the political pattern in each of the states by zealous workers constantly on the move. This is what Nixon has out of years of politicking in the 50 states.

Romney's partisans are increasingly impatient. Why, they say to each other, does he have to play it with such caution when his re-election in Michigan by a large majority is as certain as anything in the uncertain game of politics? They do not venture to say this to Romney directly, for he has a low boiling point and a highly developed sensitivity to any outside interference.

It is the pros, knowing the magnitude of the job of putting together a national organization, who are most concerned by the way time is running out. After the election on November 8, there will be hardly more than a year and a half in which to move. With many months of unadvertised search for delegates already behind him, Nixon is now readying his active and open campaign. Around the country he has put innumerable party workers in his debt.

In 1954, in a background talk to the American Society of Newspaper Editors, the then vice president suggested that American ground troops be sent to Indo-China in the face of an imminent French collapse and a takeover by the communists. When word of this leaked out, President Eisenhower vetoed the idea.

LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

The Czech festival is now a memory of potato dumplings, roast duck and caraway seed rye bread for us, along with one interesting sidelight. As we stood in line to be served, we talked with a couple behind us. The lady told of their participation in the event since its early beginning. After many interesting details were discussed, I asked her if they lived in the area.

"Oh, no," she answered. "We're from Illinois but we come here every year. Our hobby is traveling all over the United States to attend the different festivals and folk celebrations."

She then told me of her long-distance call to a hotel in Wilber to reserve rooms during their stay. The hotel was booked full but an elderly gentleman in the lobby had a furnished five-room house that he would rent them during the festival.

She beamed as she told of their house complete with refrigerator and stove . . . all ready to set up housekeeping away from home.

I suppose it's those little things of hospitality that keep the people coming back year after year.

The kitchen of the future will eliminate work, according to a news story. That is music to my ears although it would take some time for me to get used to the new trend. A dishwasher and food disposal will be located in the center of the dining table. A push button will lower the dishwasher into the table where dishes, silverware, pots and pans will be scrubbed and stored. Food particles will be flushed into a built-in disposal. The dishes never need to leave the table.

The table of tomorrow must certainly have a unique design to hide this equipment. If it drops from the center of the table, it will be an obstacle to little boys and girls who kick each other at mealtimes under the table. Or consider the plight of the young wife who wishes to give her husband a reminder under the table to keep his big mouth shut about his mother-in-law going back home where she belongs.

Wham! The wife bangs her foot against the dishwasher under the table, the husband laughs and the mother-in-law says she will stay an extra week until poor daughter's foot has healed again and she can resume her housework.

What possibilities such a table would hold for the gambler! The police raid the house and whoosh! Into the dishwasher and out into the built-in disposal unit the evidence would go, with a push of the button.

The Bob White birds have become very friendly lately. Usually I have heard them sing from the end of the lane or adjoining milo fields where they remain well hidden. The past week they have been strutting through the orchard and right into our front yard. Their clarion call echoes into my kitchen. Many times I am tempted to leave my work and go out into the yard and join the carefree banter and songfest.

Their favorite time for singing is in the quiet of the evening when their notes seem to drift in the stillness. I have heard them in the early morning hours singing from the hay fields. My hope is to entice them to spend the winter in the thicket in the windbreak about the farm. Bob and his wife would make very good neighbors, I am certain. I would gladly exchange food throughout the winter months for their delightful songs again next spring. I would guarantee an endless supply of bugs and other crawling insects and worms in my garden next summer. Duke has chased every cat from the premises so I would guarantee safety from the feline clan.

The Bob White are wary creatures so perhaps they will spurn all my offers to settle near our house for the winter. The call of the wild instinct is difficult to tame.

Wage Complaint

Lincoln, Neb.

In a recent meeting with State Hospital employes, Mr. Morris stated that Iowa's starting wage for ward aides was $270 a month, but advised us not to quit and go to Iowa. He implied our wages would be increased comparably.

We would like to bring a fact to Mr. Morris' attention. There are many aides quitting now because of low wages. Many fine, qualified and dependable people have to seek employment elsewhere because they cannot make ends meet on the salaries received at the Lincoln State Hospital.

The people of Nebraska will have to decide whether they want their loved ones entrusted to our care indefinitely merely as charges, or if they want them restored in a short time by enough aides or personnel who can help in their rehabilitation and becoming useful citizens again.

There is a small percentage who make decent wages but these are employes who have been there many years and in truth, some of them are the least who deserve raises. Some aides are receiving a charge's wages and have been forbidden to take charge of a ward, give medication or in any way act without another charge on ward, due to previous inexcusable mistakes. Then a charge is brought in, paid as much as $100 a month less and takes all responsibility, freeing the aide to lesser duties equal to inexperienced help.

There should be an equalization of wages and increases on merit and ability, rather than durability. To get a higher standard of personnel, there must be wages to attract and retain such personnel.

Getting Facts

Lincoln, Neb.

I am getting a little disgusted at Senator Curtis's continually taking slaps at organized labor. One Jimmy Hoffa (who has been expelled from the AFL-CIO) does not make all labor leaders bad, any more than one Mrs. Geiger makes all bankers bad.

There is no organization or business that is more stringently policed by the federal government than organized labor. All matters of importance such as election of officers, whether or not to strike, acceptance or rejections of an employer's offer, raise in dues, etc., must be by secret ballot of the members.

The union's books are audited by an auditing committee elected from the membership, also by the U.S. Department of Labor and the Internal Revenue Service.

What organization has done more good for the common citizen than organized labor? Labor is responsible, through determined effort, either in part or whole for the following: free public schools, Social Security, the right to vote without owning land, minimum wage law, equal pay for equal work, child labor laws, the eight-hour day, workman's compensation insurance law (injury on the job), Medicare, the Davis-Bacon Act (providing payment of prevailing wages by contractors and sub-contractors on public construction, even though they are not union workers), the establishment of the U.S. Treasury system whereby the U.S. government issues currency instead of privately owned and controlled banks whose currency fluctuated in value.

What organization can point to that kind of a record? Many, many things labor does is not for its personal gain but for the gain of the little guy who can't help himself.

Curtis is slapping labor because of the airline strike. Five per cent of travel, by Curtis's own words, is by air. Is this not primarily the elite of our travelers?

Military and defense transportation is being handled better now than before the strike, by the Defense Department's own admission. There may have been a mistake in the moving of the body of a soldier from Viet Nam, but it probably would have happened, anyway, and it has happened before the strike took place. So why blame this incident on the strike and on organized labor?

We should get the facts before we condemn, and be specific.

The Delays

Lincoln, Neb.

Perhaps the Lincoln City Council is involved in a dilemma which is without solution. It is admirable that they seek specialized outside help for recommendations on such problems as the one-way street plans, as the one-way street plans. However, procrastination can become permanent delay!

Certainly Fair Week is a poor time to inaugurate such a change—also, we must not interfere with the bustling autumn and Christmas shoppers. Then in the spring, we hope they return for Easter buying, etc. Will there ever be a time when the downtown area will be inactive enough to allow a change to be made in the traffic pattern?

It seems a fear arises among downtown merchants that such might happen to an alarming degree if some proposed shopping centers were allowed to develop. Then, to be sure, decisions could be rushed through to make the downtown traffic areas more attractive.

There might be a councilman or two who may even favor making all streets one-way, southbound. Then when everyone reached Highway 2, he could buy a lot and remain in that locality; thus there would be no overloading of streets in areas where contemplated shopping centers have been denied.

If, since the one-way plans are tabled, this leaves more time for effort and ACTION on the Northeast Diagonal, then many in the city will feel compensated.

Callan 'All For' Federal Bldg. Plan

. . . BUT THINKS MANEUVER MAY BE A MISTAKE

Washington — Rep. Clair Callan Monday said he is "all for them" if Senate conferees can hold an appropriation for the new Lincoln federal office building in the independent offices appropriations bill.

But, he said, "I think we are making a mistake trying to upset the normal procedures in getting these buildings constructed."

Callan noted that the Senate also appropriated money for the new Lincoln Post Office last year even though the House had not yet had an opportunity to authorize the project.

'Very Reluctant'

That action made the chairman of the House Public Works Committee "very reluctant to authorize the project," Callan said.

"Finally, I got the chairman to agree, and the Public Works Committee authorized both the Post Office and the federal building," the First District Democrat noted.

Now, the Senate has "again put in money when there was no opportunity for me to try to bring it into the House appropriations bill," Callan said, and in the absence of a Bureau of the Budget request for planning money for the federal building.

"Now if the Senate, in the conference Tuesday, can hold this money in there, I'm all for them," Callan said.

"If it's not held, it is not because I tried to stop it, it's because the Senate couldn't hold it."

Responding to Criticism

Responding to weekend criticism of Callan's record voiced by Republican Sen. Roman Hruska, the congressman said:

—"Is it more than a coincidence that I could get the federal office building authorized in my first term when they've been trying for four years?"

'—'I have never taken any credit for the foresight of Nebraskans in getting watershed programs ready. . .but I point out that the First District had seven projects approved by the House conservation and credit subcommittee, of which I am a member, and they represent 15% of the total funds committed in the U.S."

—"I wonder if anybody protested in 1962 when the Lincoln Veterans Administration Hospital remodeling program was not carried forward. If it had been, the closre order never would have come out in the first place."

—Lincoln, to Callan's knowledge, was the only city in the U.S. which last year received authorization for both a Post Office and a federal office building.

Neighborhood Center Approach Recommended To Lincoln Officials

The neighborhood center approach to community recreation was heavily recommended to Lincoln park and recreation officials who toured the facilities of Topeka, Kan.

The Lincoln group heard first-hand reports from Topeka recreation officials as to the difficulty of programs for teenage groups. Teenagers, said the Topeka officials, do not respond to social programs at the center.

In partial answer to this, Topeka holds city-wide dances four times annually in rented ballroom facilities. This activity, they said, will probably be expanded to perhaps once monthly.

Lincoln has faced this problem of teenage preference for a single center where all youths from the city can gather for social events as opposed to the neighborhood center approach.

Topeka Assistant Superintendent of Recreation Roland Hancock said the neighborhood centers offer a versatility and personal contact far superior to that of a single center. He admitted, however, that high school students respond poorly to social activities at the center.

What community, however, can afford a single center for limited use by teenage groups, he asked.

The Topeka neighborhood centers carry on programs for pre-schoolers through the elderly, including crafts, game rooms, roller skating, basketball, covered dish suppers, etc.

Topeka, operating with the independent recreation commission system, has an annual budget of approximately $500,000, excluding any capital expenditures. Lincoln currently has a recreation budget of $330,000, including capital expenditure outlays.

Topeka operates four neighborhood centers in a city of 114,000 people. Lincoln currently has no centers.

Two abandoned fire stations, at 23rd and O and at 12th and F, are proposed for conversion into centers but the matter rests with final budget decisions by the City Council.

Making the Topeka trip were Max Roper, William Dobler, Mrs. Ralph Beechner, Bill Haydon, Mrs. Walter C. Whittaker, John Lawlor, all representing the Park and Recreation Advisory Board; John Angle, president of the Lincoln Community Council; Marlen Luff, Junior Chamber of Commerce Sports and Recreation Committee and chairman of the Mayor's Council on Physical Fitness; Janet Maxwell, Keen Time Club Council; Robert Dula, city recreation superintendent.

Modified Plan To Aid Rural Power Urged

Washington (AP)—A modified supplemental financing plan for rural electric and telephone cooperatives was suggested Monday by Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky.

"I hope very much that with patience and the good faith of all concerned a practical, constructive and genuinely helpful plan can be adopted," he told a Senate Agriculture subcommittee as it began hearing on various proposals in this field.

Cooper introduced his modified version last Friday. It calls for federal capitalization of a rural electric bank up to $750 million. It would not exceed $50 million annually for 15 years and would be subject to appropriations limitation.

His earlier approach called for capitalization up to $1 billion, using all net proceeds of loan repayments.

Cooper's new plan—similar to a version pending before a House Agriculture unit-was endorsed by Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., "As a reasonable compromise" between the earlier proposal and one submihted by the Johnson administration.

Clyde T. Ellis, general manager of the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, endorsed, in a statement, the Senate modification or the similar House measure.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., told the Senate subcommittee he had not had an opportunity to study Cooper's new proposal in full "but from what I have heard I believe I would be able to join as a cosponsor."

Beatle Publishing Stock Jumps 16c

London (UPI) — Shares of Northern Songs, the company which publishes tunes written by Beatles John Lennon and Paul McCartney, jumped 16c on the stock market Monday on news that the Beatles received a warmer welcome than expected in the United States.

Another contributing factor was the cancellation of the ban on Beatles records by two major Spanish radio stations because of Lennon's remarks that the Beatles were more popular than Jesus.

Council Defers Action On Low-Rent Housing

By BOB SCHREPF
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Monday deferred action on a proposal to ask Lincoln voters to decide whether the city should cooperate with the Lincoln Housing Authority and the federal government in providing low-rent housing to the elderly.

Councilman John Mason and other members directed the city legal department to rewrite the resolution so that it does not imply that the city will extend its credit to finance a housing project, and "to have a more clear statement defining what our cooperation with the government is to be."

The resolution calls for a November vote on the issue. Such a referendum is a requirement for federal participation, said housing authority chairman Kenneth King.

No Obligation

King said the proposal in no way obligates the city financially. "Actually, we (housing authority) won't be able to do any more than we can now before the resolution is passed, but we want the people to tell us what they want done."

The need for low-rent housing for the elderly in Lincoln is clearly established, King added.

Explained King and Verne Pangborn, director of hospitals for the State Department of Health, but not appearing in that capacity:

—Voters would agree to give the council authority to contract with the housing group to provide services (fire and police protection) to the housing project in return for a payment in lieu of taxes.

—The housing authority would have to return to the council for its approval of specific projects. (If the council only approved 50 or 75 housing units, the authority could not issue bonds to construct a greater amount, King said.)

—Rent would be based on what the individual can pay, not what it takes to protect capital investments. The Public Housing Administration makes up the difference.

—The local housing authority "would call the shots — setting up age limits and other requirements," according to King.

Representatives of local church and social action groups appeared at the council meeting to support the housing authority proposal.

Said Pastor Lorin Wolff of Tabitha Home: "There is no possible way we or anybody else can offer low-cost housing to the aged unless it is subsidized — for that reason we favor the proposal as a reasonable solution."

Leo N. Bartunek, Lincoln attorney, opposed, saying "We need this housing about as much as we need another municipal gas station."

Bedridden elderly people need nursing home or hospital care and the indigent are the responsibility of the county welfare unit, Bartunek said.

Mayor Dean Petersen replied, "We are doing a remarkably poor job of taking care of elderly people in Lincoln."

Further council action on the referendum proposal is expected.

Okay Recommended For Off-Sale Beer Permit On Cornhusker Hwy.

The City Council Monday recommended approval of the application of B. J. Pegram for an off-sale beer license at 980 West Cornhusker Highway.

The council acted in view of state law which allowed the West Lincoln license-holder to sell off-sale beer on the same premises governed by a state-approved retail liquor license before the village was annexed by the city.

Council members said they would raise the limit now imposed on the number of off-sale beer licenses in order to include the Pegram application.

In two other liquor-related actions, the council:

—Granted the application of James F. Conlan to manage Commercial Enterprises, Inc., (Black Coach Supper Club) at 10th and Arapahoe.

—Set Aug. 29 at 1:30 p.m. as the date of hearing on the application of Earl and Winona Chrestensen for a bottle club license at 1042 P.

The council approved the appointment of Adam C. Breckenridge, University of Nebraska vice chancellor, as a member of the Board of Zoning Appeals for a term expiring Aug. 24, 1969, replacing Edwin C. Perry.

Breckenridge and Perry both retain seats on the City-County Planning Commission.

Fulbright: Johnson Policy Not Isolated

Washington (AP)—Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said Monday Hanoi and Peking are mistaken if they are refusing to negotiate an end to the Viet Nam war out of belief President Johnson is isolated in his policy and will have to back down sooner or later.

"I don't believe the President is isolated. The Congress is more warlike than he is," said Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a leading spokesman of congressional opponents of Johnson's war policies.

Some administration officials are reported to feel vocal opposition to the war among congressional doves has given Hanoi and Peking the impression the President has so little support for his policy he will ultimately have to retreat.

And this, they are said to feel, is a factor in the communists' refusal to come to the bargaining table despite the increased tempo and power of U.S. military activity around Viet Nam.

Meanwhile, Newsweek Magazine quoted Fulbright as saying he is prepared to contact the Russians to tell them they are mistaken if they expect the U.S. commitment in Viet Nam to be withdrawn as the result of political opposition.

"If I thought the President wanted me to do this," Fulbright was quoted, "I should be glad to — provided I am satisfied we are seeking a peaceful settlement rather than a military victory."

Hearings Set On War Coverage

Washington (UPI) — Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., announced Monday that his Senate Foreign Relations Committee will hold hearings on news coverage of Viet Nam.

Fulbright called Leonard H. Marks, director of the U.S. Information Agency, as the chief witness when the hearings open Wednesday.

Fulbright said the hearing was stimulated by an article in the Washington Post which said the USIA was sponsoring visits by foreign newsmen to Viet Nam.

". . . I would anticipate that our discussions would not be confined to the subject matter of the story," Fulbright wrote to Marks.

Don't miss it. News of friends club meetings makes good reading on vacation, marriages, engagements, parties, P.T.A. notes and ing in the family section of "Sunday Journal and Star."

Morrison Denies Ettinger Charge

Gov. Frank Morrison Monday answered former Boys Training School Supt. William Ettinger's charge that the chief executive has been guilty of "political chicanery" in the handling of Ettinger's case.

"If adherence to the laws of the State of Nebraska constitutes political chicanery, I am guilty," the governor said. "When the man discharged by the director of institutions requested a public hearing of me the matter was immediately referred to the attorney general."

Ettinger, who was fired as superintendent by Institutions Director George Morris last week, has criticized Morrison for refusing to ask Morris to not preside over the hearing on Ettinger's dismissal.

He also claimed that Morrison offered to show a Safety Patrol report which formed the basis for his dismissal to five Kearney clergymen who have expressed support for Ettinger.

While declining to comment directly on the latter complaint, Morrison said:

"This man shall have a public hearing in accordance with the laws of this state. Matters with reference to the conduct of the hearing now are, at all times have been, and will continue to be in the able and impartial hands of the attorney general."

Hearing Slated For August 31st In Ettinger Case

By United Press International

State Institutions Director George Morris Monday set Aug. 31 at 9:30 a.m. for William Ettinger's requested public hearing.

Ettinger was fired as head of the Kearney Boys Training School last week for allegedly encouraging five inmates to commit sodomy. He has denied the charge.

Morris, in setting the date for the governor's hearing room, termed it "ridiculous" that Gov. Frank Morrison was using the Ettinger case for political ends.

"I think it's ridiculous," said Morris. "The governor has never asserted any political influence in the Department of Institutions since its beginning."

Morris said it would be senseless for the governor to raise such an issue during a political year.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Familiarity With Annuities Helps In Retirement Planning

By ROBERT PETERSON

Those concerned about financing old age should get acquainted with annuities. While the word has a familiar ring to just about everyone, many have only a vague understanding of how annuities work.

An annuity is something you buy from an insurance company which guarantees to pay you a designated sum as long as you live.

At age 65, for instance, a man can buy for $13,379 an annuity that will pay him $100 a month for as long as he lives. The cost is a couple of thousand dollars higher for women since they live some six years longer than men.

Under a standard annuity, there's nothing left for your heirs when you're gone. But at least you're certain of having a definite amount of money coming in as long as you live.

An annuity thus confers peace of mind, for the annuitant knows that as long as he draws breath a fixed sum will be coming his way every month for life.

The return on a standard annuity adds up to about nine per cent a year, or about twice the dividends you could expect from bank savings, bonds or common stocks. An annuity also offers tax advantages and that part of the income is exempt from taxation.

What about a deferred annuity? Here you start buying in earlier years, with actual benefits deferred until you're older. For instance, a man of 45 can start putting a certain amount annually into a deferred annuity. When he reaches 65 the annuity will be paid and will thereafter pay him a stipulated sum monthly for as long as he lives.

Annuities have particular appeal for folks who have no heirs waiting breathlessly. They are thus popular with unmarried people and childless couples desirous of reaping the greatest possible income from their nestegg, and at the same time being spared fear of running out of money.

With an annuity you are in a sense playing a game of chance with the insurance company. The company estimates from statistical studies how much longer you will probably live at a given age. If you live longer than estimated, they lose money. But if you conform to the averages or fall a bit short of the mark they make a modest profit.

If you wish to make it less of a gamble you can buy a "refund annuity" which guarantees to pay a partial refund to your heirs, if you should fail to live a certain number of years. Another popular plan is the "joint and survivor annuity" which couples often buy and which pays the stipulated amount as long as either the husband or wife continues to live.

Critics point out that annuities provide only a fixed income. "With the declining value of the dollar," they say, "the dollar you receive in the future may be minus much of its buying power." This is valid criticism.

But proponents point out with equal validity that inflationary possibilities are neatly balanced by the advantages annuities offer in guaranteeing you a specific amount of income for as long as you live, whether it be 80, 90, or 110!

If you would like like a booklet "Financing Your Coming Retirement" write to Robert Peterson, "Life Begins at Forty," c/o The Lincoln Star enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to cover handling costs.

POSTCARD by Star Salaplane

Summer news is pretty placid. And that's the way we like it. Amid riots and mass murder, the summer Queens are chosen as usual. Thus putting the world into better perspective.

A Milk Queen came to town the other day, and a Maid o' Cotton has been chosen. She is not made of cotton, naturally. She is made of sugar and spice in a 36-24-36 package.

That is what good little Queens are made of and how they are put together.

Queens are a valuable part of our free enterprise system. You ever hear of a Vodka Queen? A Miss Caspian Caviar? No. Queens are 100% All-American.

Orange juice is offered to us by Orange Queens.

There are Cabbage Queens to urge us on to cole slaw. Once I interviewed a Miss Potato Chips of 19 umpty-ump.

The Queens are decorated in costumes of their chosen reign. (I nibbled a couple of potato chips off that chick. They were real. Those were the journalistic days! Wooden phrases and iron constitutions.)

It was an excellent assignment to get a Queen interview when I was welcoming fruits and flowers of the field.

It was mostly outdoor work, and I was chockful of vitamins.

The job is simple—a child could do it, but a child wouldn't appreciate it.

The press agent trots out his Queen. She is tastefully draped in bunches of Concord Grapes. The press is permitted to question her.

Q: "What is your ambition, Miss Grape Queen?"

A: "I am thrilled by this honor for I have always been wild about grapes. My ambition is to finish my education and then marry a grape farmer and have several children whom I shall raise on grapes."

The press agent then stepped in and handed around sheets of statistics.

Miss Grape Queen was 19. She lived with her parents in the grape country. She was so goofy about grapes her mama had to hide them from her—like a cookie jar.

"As a prize, the Grape Queen will get $1000 and an all-expense trip to Hollywood where she will have a screen test."

It proved the worth of the free enterprise system. Any little girl, by eating grapes and measuring 36-24-36, could grow up to be 19 and get a thousand dollars and a trip to Hollywood.

Well, a different set of cats are looking at queens these lively days. I haven't interviewed a queen for many a day. But am on the active reserve list. Steady and ready.

The Milk Queen looked just like the queens of yesteryear. We used to tape measure queens to see if the press agent was on the level. What a job!

I always favored Queens plugging something you could squeeze juice out of.

The press agents passed out paper cups of the product—grape juice or orange juice. And, if the account was paying well, they spiked it with a jolt of old squareface.

The Milk Queen was a milky looking girl. The costume was vague—I suppose the milk would have run right off her. I would have had her milking a cow. That was always a good picture.

She made the proper statements. She started life drinking milk. (Laughter.)

Milk is good for everybody. It is the perfect food.

I read it while having a steak sandwich. I don't get around to the paper until noon. I skip over the rough news on Page One. Turn to Page Three. That's where they put the Queens.

Horse Play Cause Of Broken Toe

Greensburg, Kan. (AP)—Bob Martin figures it was horse play that broke his toe.

He was examining a horse's hoof when the animal kicked him in the leg.

Martin retaliated with a well-placed kick of his own which broke his toe.

Accused Slayer Judged Juvenile In Murder Case

Brighton, Colo. (UPI) — Dist. Judge Jean Jacobucci ruled Monday that Charles Brett Lange, accused in the murder of a playmate, will stand trial as a juvenile rather than an adult.

Jacobucci gave Dist. Atty. Floyd Marks of Brighton 10 days in which to file objections and juvenile charges against Lange. The judge also suggested a $5,000 bond for the youth which will be decided after the 10-day stay.

Air Force Disciplining 4 In Crash Of Costly XB70

Washington (AP) — The Air Force disclosed Monday it is taking disciplinary action against four officials involved in the approval of a commercial picture taking mission by the $500 million XB70 which crashed in California June 8.

Air Force Secretary Harold Brown told Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara in a memorandum that the photographic mission authorized for the research craft was of "questionable propriety."

Brown said if the letter and spirit of existing guide lines had been followed the picture-takng phase of the flight would not have been authorized by top Air Force officials in Washington.

Colonel Relieved

He said that as a result of the investigation into the crash, Col. Albert W. Cate has been relieved as deputy for systems tests in the XB70 program and assigned to other duties.

Written reprimands, Brown said, have been or will be given to Col. Joe Cotton, test force director; Col. James G. Smith, information director for the Air Force Flight Test Center at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., and John S. McCollom, director of research vehicles in the Air Force Systems Command at Wright Patterson AFB, Ohio.

The XB70, originally built as a prototype for a new strategic bomber but now a chief research tool for developing a supersonic transport, crashed near Edwards Air Force Base after an in-flight collision with an F104 chase plane.

Pictures For GE

The planes were in a flight formation which, among other things, was designed to make pictures requested by General Electric, manufacturer of their engines.

The photos of the formation were being made from a Lear Jet, contracted by General Electric, which flew a few hundred feet to the left of the XB70.

The accident killed Joseph S. Walker, holder of the world's altitude and speed records, who was piloting the F104, and Maj. Carl S. Cross, copilot of the XB70.

The Air Force secretary, in a memorandum and analysis of the crash, told McNamara that approval was neither sought nor obtained by the XB70 officials for the picture-making phase of the June 8 flight.

Ky, Thieu Visit Hue, Its College

Hue (UPI)—South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky Monday visited without incident this ancient northern city where Buddhist protest against his government had been centered.

Ky, whm was accompanied by Chief of State Nguyen Can Thieu, even walked onto the campus of Hue University among students who have taken to the streets to denounce him in recent months.

Ky and Thieu attended the inauguration of Nguyen The An as new rector of the university.

Thieu said he and the premier attended the ceremony to disprove rumors the government is planning to close the university.

To Headquarters

Later Ky visited government headquarters in Hue and held a brief news conference.

He was asked about rumors that elections for a constituent assembly Sept. 11, would not be run fairly by the government.

Absolutely untrue, replied Ky. "If I wanted to stay in the government I simply would not call any election."

Ky promised he will decree harsh punishments for anyone who tampers with the elections. He said he would like to face rumor-mongers in a television debate, "but they don't dare face me."

Accusation

In Saigon, however, the Vien Hoa Dao, headquarters of the Buddhist Institute, accused the government of calling the election "with decree laws full of crooked and anti-democratic intentions."

It ordered its members and affiliated organizations to boycott the polls.

It said the Buddhist church "cannot think of participating in the election" because after last spring's political crisis, thousands of people died, disappeared, were arrested or were forced into hiding."

Omahan Gets 10-Year Term For Shooting

Los Angeles (AP) — A 23-year-old auto wrecker from Omaha, Neb., was sentenced Monday in superior court to one to 10 years in state prison for shooting a man to death after visiting several bars.

Henry Parker, who lived in suburban Carson after moving from Omaha, was convicted of voluntary manslaughter June 28. He was accused of killing Lloyd Edward Lowe, 29, on Feb. 5.

Witnesses said Parker visited bars with friends on the night of the killing, getting into a brawl at one. Parker denied any knowledge of the shooting.

No Spending On Capitol Extension Allowed This Year

Washington (AP) — Senate-house conferees agreed Monday to block any spending this year for the controversial proposal to extend the west front of the Capitol, but to permit preliminary planning to continue.

The compromise was announced by Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., in announcing agreement on a $214 million bill to finance congressional costs for the current fiscal year that started July 1.

A commission composed of party leaders of both House and Senate had recommended an extensive project to provide numerous new offices and at least three dining rooms by pushing the front facing the Capitol out from 44 to 88 feet at an estimated cost of $34 million. This brought an uproar of protest against changing the historic west front.

TRAGIC PLANE CRASH TESTIMONIAL

One of the turbines of the twin-jet Braniff airliner that crashed near Falls City, Neb., the night of Aug. 6 is being investigated in minute detail by a crew of experts at Fairfax airport in Kansas City, Kan. They are seeking to establish the cause of the crash. A Civil Aeronautics Board spokesman said another 2,000 pounds of debris from the crash will be taken to Dallas, Tex. for study. A Braniff official said the Dallas-bound load will include any parts of instruments, hydraulic motors and other operating mechanisms of the plane that were found.

Poverty, Canal Get LBJ's Attention At Ranch

San Antonio, Tex. (AP) —A report of progress in his "war on poverty" and a slowdown of plans for a new Atlantic-Pacific canal shared President Johnson's attention Monday as he wound up a quiet weekend at his Texas ranch.

And before returning to Washington, Johnson announced some appointments, including elevation of two federal district judges to circuit courts of appeals and the naming of two new district judges in Louisiana.

The President received from several advisers reports on advances in various phases of his program to aid the disadvantages.

—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey told him the over one million youths benefitted from the summertime campaign to get jobs for young people for the second straight year.

'Champ'

Humphrey, as head of a summer youth opportunity task force, reported also: 250,000 youths are being served by "Operation Champ" built around sports; 200,000 preschool children were enrolled in a special summer program of Operation Head Start, and the neighborhood youth corps expects to put nearly 86,000 young people in jobs in 35 communities.

—Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, reported efforts to improve and expand swimming and other water recreation are under way in two score metropolitan areas with fine local cooperation. He said military pools are being opened to outsiders and city pools are operating longer hours.

—Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor reported that the Appalachian highway program, designed to open Eastern mountain areas to expansion of commerce and communications, has completed or put under construction 173.5 miles of highways. Engineering and right-of-way acquisition are under way on 451 miles as of June 30, his report said. Connor said $148.7 million in federal and state funds have been obligated — more than two-third of it federal money.

Pleased

Johnson issued a statement pressing pleasure at the success of the summer job program for youths. And he asked Humphrey's task force to look into the possibility continuing it on an all-year basis to form the nucleas of an expanded summer job program next year.

The President asked Humphrey to undertake also again this year a "stay-in-school campaign" directed at 900,000 youths who otherwise would be expected to drop out of school in the school year ahead.

The snag in plans for a new sea-level Atlantic-Pacific canal was revealed by Johnson in transmitting to Congress the second annual report of a commission studying the routes.

The commission is now scheduled to make its final report and recommendations not later than June 30, 1968, but Johnson said the commission plans to ask for an extension.

Survey Delay

Johnson said "circumstances beyond its control have delayed initiation of full-scale survey work on canal routes until early 1967."

The commission reported on its study of engineering and technical data, and political, military and economic problems involving these proposed routes:

Generally along the Nicaragua-Costa Rica border; several proposals in and near the Panama Canal zone; in the Darien region of Panama; extreme northwest Colombia. Also, the commission said, it is reviewing previous plans for converting the present Panama Canal to a sea-level waterway.

Johnson's planned judicial nominations include:

—David W. Dyer of Miami, now district judge in southern Florida, to the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals which serves Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas.

—Wade Hampton McCree of Detroit, a district judge in eastern Michigan, to the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals which serves Ohio, Michigan, Kentucky and Tennessee.

—Edward J. Boyle Sr. of New Orleans and Alvin B. Rubin of Baton Rouge to be district judges for eastern Louisiana.

Dyer will secceed Judge Warren L. Jones, who has retired. McCree will fill a new judgeship.

Peace Corpsmen Apologizes To Nigerians For 'Insult'

Lagos, Nigeria (AP)— A U.S. Peace Corps teacher has apologized to Nigerians who accused him of insulting the African race, the Peace Corps director in Nigeria said Monday.

The newspaper West African Pilot had reported that Nigerian staff members at the Eastern Region Teacher Training College at Bori accused Robert S. Davis, 23, of insulting Africans by asking students to summarize two passages — one quoting a South Carolina court decision that the word Negro was synonymous with the word slave, and the other that Africans have no history.

The Pilot said the incident disrupted classes and brought a halt to exams at the school, 20 miles south of Port Harcourt.

Peace Corps Director John McConnell said in Lagos that Davis had apologized for what was termed a misunderstanding.

"He did not feel he did anything wrong."

Davis thought, McConnell added, that the passages would "stimulate the students' interest" and meant no oracial slur.

The passage about Negroes was taken from a book "Crisis In Black and White" by Charles E. Silberman published in 1964, the Pilot said. It identified the other passage as being from the book "Lost Cities of Africa" by Basil Davidson.

Davis arrived in Nigeria last April. He is from Martinsburg, Pa.

The Pilot's headline over its account of the incident was: "Another Michelmore Incident?" That was a reference of Margery Michelmore, a member of the first Peace Corps group to Nigeria in October 1961. She dropped a postcard remarking on squalor and was asked to leave the country.

The Pilot quoted Nigerian teachers as saying Davis should leave the country also because he could "not deny total alignment with the slanderous statements."

Industrial Output Up 9% In July

Washington (AP)— The output of the nation's mines, mills and factories increased during July for the 10th straight month despite a sharp cutback in automobile production, the Federal Reserve Board reported Monday.

In its national summary of business conditions, the board said industrial production rose to a record 157.5% of the 1957-59 average of 100. This was 1.3 points higher than the revised June figure of 156.2%.

The July index was nine per cent ahead of the same month a year ago and eight-tenths of one per cent higher than June.

In its summary, the board also reported continued expansion of nonfarm employment and a further increase in retail sales during July.

"The unemployment rate changed little," the board reported.

Money Down

"Bank credit increased, but the private money supply declined while government deposits increased. Between mid-July and mid - August, yields on corporate and municipal bonds rose and common stock prices declined."

The board said output of equipment and materials increased substantially during July while the output of consumer goods declined slightly.

Auto assemblies, after allowance for early model change overs, declined 10% and the schedules for August indicate little change from this reduced level, the board said.

All figures in the report are adjusted for seasonal variations.

TV Down

Output of television sets and some other consumer durable goods also declined in July while production of nondurable consumer goods continued to increase.

The output of business equipment, the board said, rose more than one per cent during July and at 183% of the 1957-59 average was 17% above a year earlier.

Recommendations Accepted By Board

The State Board of Equalization accepted the amended recommendations of State Tax Commissioner George Dworak without change Monday in setting the state's valuation for 1966.

The tabulation below shows the original valuation adjustments proposed by the tax commissioners for the 93 counties prior to hearings before the state board.

The amended proposals are those of the tax commissioner following hearing, taking into consideration testimony and other evidence.

The asterisks (*) shown for 16 counties indicate those with scientific reappraisals under the 1963 mandatory appraisal law.

Counties reporting valuations as shown by their reappraisals were left unchanged. Adjustments were ordered for the others reflect restoration of their scientific reappraisals levels before modification by county boards.

Dworak's Proposals Shifted Most On Ag Improvements

State Tax Commissioner George Dworak's amended recommendations for tax valuation equalization varied sharply only on rural agricultural improvements from the recommendations he made before hearings by the State Board of Equalization.

In his first recommendations, Dworak listed only two categories of property, urban and rural. His final recommendations split urban into agricultural improvements.

The figures for agricultural improvements valuations showed the greatest change in Dworak's thinking because testimony led him to believe the ag improvements were valued about properly in 1965 and he therefore recommended that the 1965 figures as equalized by the state be used again.

Some Sharp Decreases

Thus, in six counties, Dworak's final recommendations on ag improvements were identical with his earlier recommendations, none of the counties was increased in this category and the other 87 all showed decreases, some of them sharp.

Three counties for which he had earlier recommended ag improvement increases of 90% or more—Hamilton, Holt and Brown—were reduced to no change from figures submitted by the counties this year.

Rural land values were reduced from Dworak's earlier recommendations in 73 counties, remained the same in 7 and increased in 13. Most changes in Dworak's percentage recommendations in land values were minor.

Up In 15, Down in 54

For suburban property, Dworak's final recommendations were increased from his first recommendations in 15 counties, the same in 24 and reduced in 54.

For urban property, Dworak's final recommendation was above his original recommendation in 42 counties, the same in 11 and decreased in 40.

BRIDE

at afternoon wedding

The candelighted chancel of Westminster Presbyterian Church, and the pews the length of the processional aisle, were decorated with bouquets of white chrysanthemums caught with bows in the vivid pink shade for the marriage of Miss Karen Eileen Benting, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rolla L. Benting, to Roger Frank de Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wallace de Brown, on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 14. The ceremony was solemnized at 4 o'clock by Dr. Robert Palmer.

Empire frocks of peau de soie in the pink-pink tone with matching full-length coats were chosen for the attendants who were Miss Marcia Benting, as her sister's maid of honor; Miss Linda de Brown, sister of the bridegroom, the bridesmaid; and the bridesmatrons, Mrs. Lynn Bonge and Mrs. Peter Lage, Jr., Omaha; and Mrs. James E. Jones. They carried rounded bouquets of large. white chrysanthemums.

Stephen de Brown served his brother as best man, and seating the guests were Douglas Osterholm, Marvin Braun, and David Kahm, Omaha; Greg Kemist, Don Peterson and Fred Youngscap.

Re-embroidered Alencon lace traced with seed pearls patterned the bride's gown of ivory peau de soie. Petal scallops of the lace formed the portrait neckline of the high-waisted basque, which was designed with elbow sleeves edged with flaring ruffles of the lace, and the lace applique was repeated in a deep border at the hem of the slender skirt and the panel train, which continued to chapel length. Her circular, tiered veil of French illusion was held by a pillbox cap of jeweled lace and silk, and her cascade bouquet was fashioned of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. de Brown will make their home at 6020 Adams. The bridegroom is a student at the University of Nebraska. A graduate of the University, the bride is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority and Mortar Board honor society.

THERE'S

talk of this and that--in and out of town

Life never goes on as usual—at least not when a clever idea is born. The clever idea we have in mind was the brain child of Mrs. George B. Cook who immediately put it to work.

Last Monday, on Aug. 8, Mr. and Mrs. Cook had a Christmas party at their summer home in Longville, Minn. The tremendous Christmas tree, cut from their own woods, reached to the top of the vaulted ceiling in the living room, and it was decorated from top to bottom with homemade ornaments.

The ornaments, by the way, were the handiwork of the guests who followed to the letter the instructions on their Christmas card invitations—which stated that a homemade tree ornament and a silly gift were 'musts'.

And the guests? Well, they included the summer residents on the beach—and their children, and everyone was so delighted with the idea that Mr. and Mrs. Cook have decided to make it something of an August tradition.

The tree, of course, was fun—the silly gifts were fun, and to top everything off there was a Christmas dinner—the Dec. 25th variety, with all of the trimmings.

Incidentally—Among the guests at the Christmas party were Mr. and Mrs. Cook's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Brad Cook of Chicago.

Just home from Europe are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Devaney and Mr. and Mrs. John Ross who crowded considerable traveling into two weeks—Perhaps we should say that Mrs. Devaney and Mrs. Ross did the traveling while Mr. Devaney and Mr. Ross were in Frankfurt, Germany, conducting a football clinic for the Armed Forces. The distaff side of the foursome spent some time in London, Paris, Rome—and went to Salzburg—Then they joined their husbands in Frankfurt and from there did about of touring in Germany—Then another day or two in London—and home.

Mr. and Mrs. Devaney, however, did not come directly to Lincoln. The Coach had a conference to attend, and while that was in session Mrs. Devaney visited her family in Michigan.

We hear that some former Lincoln residents have returned to Lincoln to reside after a nine years absence. Our 'homecomers' are Dr. and Mrs. William Heidrick, and their nine years absence included, for Dr. Heidrick, graduating from the St. Louis University School of Medicine, and internship at Wayne County Hospital, Eloise, Mich.; a tour of duty as a flight surgeon—Capt. Heidrick, USAF—at Stead Air Force Base, Nevada. Then came three years of specializing in obstetrics and gynecology at Milwaukee General Hospital.

From Milwaukee Dr. and Mrs. Heidrick and their three children—the eight year-old Greogry, Tommy—who is five, and three year-old Miss Laura, came to Lincoln where they are residing at 2645 Van Dorn St.

Last Friday evening a group of their old friends had a homecoming-housewarming party as a surprise welcome to Dr. and Mrs. Heidrick.

ABBY

wait until Christmas

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My sister who is a 50-year-old divorcee asked if she could make her home with me. My husband and I have a rather large home, but both his mother and my mother live with us, and we still have two sons living at home which crowds us a little. My sister pays $50 room and board. She recently met a man who, I suppose, is "courting her."

We don't want to spoil her chances with him, but he comes over almost every night for supper, on my sister's invitation. After supper they take over the living room and everybody else has to go to bed. How much longer should we put up with this? He takes her out occassionally, but not very often.

DEAR NO: I realize it's tough sledding for a 50-year-old divorcee, but give him till Christmas, and if doesn't put a ring in your sister's stocking, you put a bug in her ear.

DEAR ABBY: Re "NOSE JOB,"—The girl who wanted her nose bobbed by a plastic surgeon: Her mother kept saying the girl had her father's nose and his nose fit his face.

And you said, a girl's nose doesn't have to fit her father's face. Abby, you should have said if a girl was meant to resemble her father, or any other male relative, she would have had a flat chest. Yours Sincerely,

ISOBEL IN TORONTO

DEAR ISOBEL: SOME HAVE.

DEAR ABBY, Permit me to introduce myself. I am Jerry Moshenberg and I edited a wrestling publication for two years, so I feel qualified to speak with some authority on the subject of wrestling. It is impossible for a man to get anywhere in the wrestling profession unless he weighs 200 pounds, minimum!

And for a 42-year-old to start training for a career in wrestling is useless. Wrestlers should start in their teens as it takes years of hard training to become a pro. So tell "WANTS TO WRESTLE" to forget it, unless he wants to go to Scotland or England where they sanction bouts between men under 200 pounds. Very truly yours,

J. M. IN BALTIMORE

DEAR J. M.: "WANTS TO WRESTLE" is a woman. What are HER chances?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LITTLE RED CONVERTIBLE" IN SACRAMENTO: An old technique for taking the sting out of criticism is to label the critics "jealous." Don't fall into that trap. The criticism may be just.

bride-elect is complimented

Acquiring a Master's degree from the University of Nebraska earlier this month, and planning a wedding for later in August, have kept Miss Constance Hunsaker pretty much on the hop, skip and jump.

But she has had time out for parties and one of the most recent of these was the informal family party and personal shower for which Mrs. Ruben Worster and her mother, Mrs. Ann Vanous, were hostesses late last week.

Bride-Elect Is Honored

In prenuptial courtesy to Miss Martha Porter, whose marriage to Terry Drayton will be solemnized late this month, Mrs. Dean Lancaster and Mrs. Charles Bartlett were luncheon hostesses on Monday at the home of Mrs. Lancaster.

The guest list included members of the family and close friends. Following the luncheon the honoree was presented with a one-gift shower.

NEWS of suburban areas

Residents along suburbia's lanes are more likely to be found at home these days than they would have been in the earlier, more active days of summer. For as the calendar pages dwindle in number until that red-letter day when school begins, suburban dwellers are busy enough outfitting their children for the school days ahead.

Many, however, are taking time out to talk to their neighbors about recent trips and other summertime activities over the proverbial back fences. Our fence-dropping ears have caught up with some of these items that are being talked about over the fences and on the patios of southeastern Lincoln.

PRAIRIE VALLEY

On our list of suburban newsmakers this morning Mr. and Mrs. Gene Van Winkle stand out as the travelers who have probably clocked the largest mileage this summer. They have been consistently on the go since early May. But don't be envious, even though, you may be the sort of person who has a yearning for wandering. The travels of the Van Winkles have not been for purely pleasure purposes. Because of Mr. Van Winkle's connection with National Speedways, Inc., both Mr. and Mrs. Van Winkle travel the auto racing circuit in the summer.

It has given them opportunities, though, to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Erv Pfeifer and their three children in Sioux Falls, S.D. This week they head to Des Moines, Ia. for the Iowa State Fair, and in the near future they'll be at track-side for the races at the Nebraska State Fair.

FIENE HEIGHTS

Sometimes a pet's name can be a dead give-away to the interests of the pet's owners and this is exactly the case with one of Woods Boulevard's new resident canines, "Touchdown." Touchdown, a poodle puppy, is the new mascot of the George Kelly family. The name must have been an automatic choice for the children of NU's defensive line coach.

The Kellys acquired the poodle after they returned from a short trip to the Alliance ranch of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Heath, football fans and friends of the family. While in Alliance, the Kelly children, Barbara, Patty, Lorie, and Kevin witnessed their first rodeo, so Fiene Heights neighbors can count their blessings and be thankful that the Kellys didn't decide on a steer and name it Orange Bowl!"

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Savery left Sunday for a week's vacation at the Lake of the Ozarks in Missouri. Their oldest sons, Kent and Doug, elected to stay at home while son, Greg, and daughter, Pam, traveled to Crete to visit with cousins for the week.

HOLLINGSWORTH HEIGHTS

On Sunday Mrs. Floyd Trowbridge returned home from a short visit with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Keal and their children, Michael, Richard and Dana Joan, in Richmond, Ind.

Earlier this summer, Mr. and Mrs. Trowbridge visited another son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keal, in Poughkeepsie, N.Y. The New York visit was made while the Trowbridges were on their way back to Lincoln from a three-week June vacation trip to France and Spain.

SOUTH HILLS

Other travelers who headed westward in recent weeks were Mr. and Mrs. Leon Starkey and their children, Dale, Dwight, Debbie and Duane. Mrs. Starkey compared the preparation for the camper-trailer trip to packing for a week-long family picnic. The majority of vacation time was spent sightseeing in Colorado Springs, but according to Mrs. Starkey one of the trip's unexpected highpoints was the family's short stay at the "really nice and well-equipped" Harlan County Recreation Area.

Former Coed Is Bride

The wedding of Miss Anda Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ansis Anderson, and Martin Liepa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oskars Liepa of Des Moines, took place Sunday afternoon, Aug. 14, at Grace Lutheran Church. Bouquets of white carnations and roses appointed the altar for the 1:30 o'clock service, which was read by the Rev. Herbert Jesifers, and Mrs. Parsla Grinbergs, organist, played the wedding music

Mrs. Janis Krauze, as the matron of honor, wore a long-skirted frock of aquamarine georgette over taffeta detailed at the back by a draped Watteau panel. Costumed identically in frosted turquoise were the bridesmaids, Miss Frances Duffy, Omaha; Miss Zaiga Krauze and Miss Anda Grinbergs. Each carried a single, deep pink rose.

Serving Mr. Liepa as best man was Janis Krauze, and the groomsmen were the bridegroom's brothers, John Liepa and George Liepa, Des Moines; and Valdis Krauze.

The bride appeared in a gown of white peau de soie designed in the Empire mode. Appliques of Italian lace trimmed the portrait neckline and elbow sleeves of the sculptured bodice, and the lace was repeated at the hem of the slender skirt, which was complemented by a panel train of the silk and lace. Her illusion veil was held by a lace crown, and she carried a cascade of gardenias.

The couple will make their home in Des Moines.

Opening lead — queen of spades.

Timing is a highly important element of good dummy play. For example, when declarer plays a suit contract, he may be faced with the problem of when to draw trumps, when to take certain finesses, when to establish high card tricks or long suits, and similar problems.

Some or all of these things may have to be done, but the order in which they take place can be of highly critical importance. The timing of such plays often spells the difference between the success or failure of a contract.

South was in four hearts and got a spade lead. He won with the ace and immediately attacked trumps. He led the jack and finessed, losing to the queen. Back came a spade and South won with the king. Eventually he lost four tricks — a spade, two hearts and a diamond — and went down one.

But he should have made the contract. While the idea of clearing trumps was good, it was put into effect prematurely. South should not have attacked hearts at once. By doing so, he virtually pinned all his hopes on losing only one trump trick.

The trump situation could wait. South could afford to lose two heart tricks and still make the contract, provided he escaped the loss of a spade.

He could have avoided the spade loser by leading the king of diamonds at trick two. If the defense took the ace, dummy would immediately provide a parking place in diamonds on which the spade loser could be discarded.

If East refused the king of diamonds, a continuation would establish dummy's third diamond as a trick. The jack of clubs, in such case, would serve as an entry to obtain the discard.

In most suit contracts declarer plays trumps at once. But where there are more urgent things to be done, as in this hand, declarer delays trump extraction until the time is more propitious.

First things come first.

'Trib' At Its Best Was Giant, Sprightly Even At Its Worst

New York (AP)—The Herald Tribune, whose death was announced Monday, was a newspaper with roots deep in American history.

At its best, it was a giant of journalism. At its worst, even its critics conceded it was sprightly, entertaining, controversial.

It was read by presidents and paupers.

The work of great writers and reporters graced its pages.

The Herald Tribune was formed in 1924 by the merger of the Herald, founded in 1835 by James Gordon Bennett, and the Tribune, founded in 1841 by Horace Greeley.

Innovations

Separately, and then as a merged organ, the Herald and the Tribune developed some of journalism's most significant innovations.

And some of journalism's greatest names are inseparably woven into its history — Bennett, Greeley, Mark Twain, Richard Harding Davis, Henry J. Raymond, Charles A. Dana . . .

"Dr. Livingston, I presume . . ."

Henry M. Stanley spoke that immortal phrase, and he was a Herald reporter, sent to darkest Africa to find Dr. Stanley M. Livingston, the explorer and missionary, in 1871.

The Herald, born May 6, 1835, was founded as a rival to the pioneer penny paper, the Morning Sun. Bennett, then 40, had a head full of ideas and $500 in his pocket.

First Market Page

There was wit, society gossip, tersely expressed editorial opinion and much foreign news in Bennett's Herald. He had the first financial page, gathering and editing the news of Wall Street himself.

The Herald was the first paper to fully cover murder trials.

In those early days, when the world was still a big place and travel and communications were difficult, the Herald was honored for its coverage of the Mexican War. And it had 40 correspondents with the Union Army in the Civil War.

This policy of full coverage continued after Bennett died in 1872 and he was succeeded by his 31-year-old son, James Gordon Jr. It was the son who sent Stanley after Livingston, and he was at the helm when the Tribune at one time led in the great circulation wars of the 1880s and '90s.

Went To France

Ironically, Bennett Jr.'s own interest in the far corners of the world may have contributed to the eventual slide of the Herald. In 1887 he moved to France, started the Paris Herald and attempted to edit the New York newspaper from his Paris home.

The New York Herald began to decline. By the time Bennett Jr. died in 1918 the newspaper was losing money —and it was sold in 1920 to Frank Munsey, a speculator who had been buying up newspapers.

Munsey paid $4 million for the Herald and the Evening Telegraph, which also was owned by Bennett heirs. Munsey already had control of the Morning Sun. He merged the Herald and the Sun, and then set out to acquire the Tribune.

Idealist Greeley

Bewhiskered Greeley, an idealistic 33-year-old printer from New Hampshire, had fathered the Tribune April 10, 1841. It started as a Whig paper of 5,000 circulation, and its objectives were to raise the standards of labor, abolish slavery, ban liquor and achieve utopian socialism.

It was a penny paper, too, but it avoided the sensational. Men like Henry J. Raymond and Charles A. Dana kept it cleanly written and precisely edited.

Whitelaw Reid, an editor and war correspondent from Ohio, was among its staffers, and he was an impressive, scholarly man. When Greeley died—like the elder Bennett, in 1872 — the stockholders named Reid editor. With the aid of Jay Gould, a Wall Street plunger, he bought control of the Tribune's stock.

Opposite

Reid was 36 and the antithesis of Greeley. He was well educated, a thorough conservative and a bitter foe of union labor. He married the daughter of wealthy banker Ogden Mills, and turned the Tribune into the nation's chief spokesman for the Republican Party and the rich and socially prominent families of the East.

When Whitelaw Reid died in 1912, his son, Ogden M. Reid, took over as owner and editor. Although Ogden Reid continued his father's policies of high quality writing and subject matter, he could not build circulation or advertising.

He refused, however, to sell the Tribune to Munsey. And with the aid of his astute wife, the former Helen Rogers, he held mnto his beloved newspaper until he wore down the speculator.

Instead, in 1924, the Reids purchased Munsey's Herald for $5 million and killed it—all but the famous name. That they added to their own masthead, and the New York Herald Tribune began immediately to prosper.

Ogden M. Reid died in 1947, and his widow carried on as publisher and chairman of the board until 1955. She retired then, and her elder son, Whitelaw Reid, became chairman of the board and her younger son, Ogden Reid, became president, publisher and editor. Ogden was 29.

Whitelaw Reid had become the Herald Tribune's editor two years earlier, when he was 39. He tried to stop decreasing circulation by turning to lively features and emphasis on cafe society and crime news.

In his turn, Ogden Reid introduced circulation contests, a sports section and entertainment section, printed a weekly television magazine supplement, borrowed $2.5 million.

But the circulation slide continued. In 1950, it had been 345,423 daily and 633,364 Sunday; in 1960, 336,647 daily and 488,161 Sunday.

In September, 1957, Oxford-educated John Hay Whitney, U.S. ambassador to Britain, invested $1.2 million in the Herald Tribune, and he was given an option to the end of 1958 to buy a controlling interest.

He exercised that option Aug. 28, 1958.

One After The Other

In what were to be the Herald Tribune's last eight years, innovation followed innovation. Its Sunday magazines became marvels of contemporary writing and illustration. Its writers were recognized as leaders in their fields: Kerr on drama, Eugenia Sheppard on fashion, Lippman and Alsop on politics and Red Smith on sports. Art Buchwald and John Crosby were widely read columnists.

The format was changed, and became a source of discussion throughout newspaperdom. News was packaged, explained, interpreted. It was digested on the first page, so that a reader could get a briefing of the day's top events in a few minutes' reading time, then go to the various sections for in depth details.

But still circulation slid. In 1965, its last full year of publication, it was down to 303,179 daily and 360,876 Sunday.

For the period of almost four years since Nov. 1, 1962, strikes have shut down some or all of New York's major dailies 38 weeks in the last 197 — roughly one of every five weeks.

The longest and costliest strike in New York newspaper history came in this period, the 1962-63 blackout that ran for 114 days. It was called Dec. 8, 1962, by the AFL-CIO International Typographical Union (ITU) and ended March 31, 1963.

The present shutdown of the World Journal Tribune papers entered its 114th day Monday, matching the earlier strike in duration but not in scope.

Slay Guatemala Anti-Red Leader

Guatemala City (UPI) — Guatemalan anti-communist leader Manuel Orellana Portillo was shot fatally Monday near Zacapa, where he had a country home.

Orellana—president of congress in 1963 under the Miguel Ydigoras Fuentes government—had been a fighting anti-communist deputy at various periods since 1954.

Munich (UPI)—An East German student, expelled from Jena University and facing disciplinary action because he watched a Western television program, escaped to the West, police here reported.

Plymouth, England (UPI) —A Chinese-built ketch, sailed 8,500 miles from Singapore by seven Britons, arrived here after a five-month voyage via Colombo, Bombay, Suez and the French canals to Bordeaux.

Senate Rejects Expanded Transit Program

Washington (UPI)—Led by gleeful Republicans shouting their loyalty to President Johnson's budget, the Senate rejected Monday an expansion of the mass transit program and voted to keep it at the current level for two more years.

The legislation, approved 65 to 18, would provide $150 million a year in 1968 and 1969 for federal grants to help the nation's urban areas solve their mass transportation problems.

The GOP-led rebellion against the Senate Banking Committee scuttled efforts to increase the program to $225 million annually in 1968 and 1969.

The Senate adopted, 47 to 34, an amendment by Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., which cut the figure in the committee bill from $225 million annaully to $150 million, the same amount authorized for fiscal 1967.

The Republicans, with vocal support from Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, cited the Viet Nam war and the state of the economy as the reasons for holding back the program.

But they had the most fun by reminding the Democrats that the administration only asked for a one-year authorization of $95 million which, with an expected leftover of $55 million from fiscal 1967, would have provided $150 million for fiscal 1968.

Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., joyfully proclaimed, "I shall fight until a cow gives beer to uphold the President's position."

Lausche chimed in with his refusal to support "this extravagant, imprudent, reckless expenditures of the taxpayer's money."

Sen. Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., floor manager of the bill, tried vainly to get the extra money.

"What we're trying to do is to give the people an alternative to two hours in the morning and two hours in the evening he said.

"We just appropriated $5.2 billion to get a few people to the moon. Now we want only 4% of that to get millions and millions to work."

The bill would provide for planning, engineering and designing of mass transportation projects; grants for fellowships in the mass transportation field; grants for comprehensive research; and grants for studies to develop new systems of mass transit.

RFK Says Too Little Spent On Cities' Ills

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., accused the Johnson administration Monday of failing to spend enough effectively to combat ills of the nation's big cities where racial riots have exploded in the ghettos.

With an expected increase in federal revenues of $10 billion to $14 billion by 1967, Kennedy said, the United States could carry the burdens of both the Viet Nam and anti-poverty wars.

He said, "We would add $6 billion to our annual spending immediately" if President Johnson chose to spend the same proportion of money that President John F. Kennedy did in the early 1960s.

2-Year Inquiry

The senator testified before the Senate subcommittee on executive reorganization as the panel opened a two-year investigation of the uses of an estimated $96 billion in federal funds given to cities over the past decade.

Chairman Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., said he would also probe the underlying causes of racial violence in U.S. cities.

Kennedy proposed that the government underwrite corporations that would put slum residents to work rebuilding their neighborhoods.

Misuse by cities of millions they get for urba nrenewal is one cause of the recent outbreaks of violence, Rep. William B. Widnall, R-N.J., said.

Irresponsibility

Instead of replacing urban slums with low-cost housing, Widnall said, cities have used federal aid mostly for commercial and expensive housing developments. He said the recent riots in Cleveland followed irresponsible urban renewal.

Another reason for local problems is big business, which blackmails local governmental bodies into inaction and urban decay, Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., charged. Industry is able to wield huge influence because of the keen competition for new plants among states and cities, he said.

Clark said plans for tax reform bring on a species of corporate blackmail in the form of threats from businessmen to locate in other areas where the business climate is "less hostile."

Why Are You Ignored When You Talk?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports a simple technique of everyday conversation which can pay you real dividends in social and business advancement and works like magic to give you poise, self confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by what they say and how they say it. Whether in business, at social functions, or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances there are ways to make a good impression every time you talk.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for everyday conversation, the publishers have printed full details of their interesting self-training method in a new book, "Adventures in Conversation," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Send your name, address and zip code to: Conversation, 835 Diversey Parkway, Dept. 830C, Chicago, Ill. 60614. A postcard will do.

After Vietnam... What?

If the U.S. were suddenly plunged into peace, what would happen to our war-buoyed economy? What about the staggering $30 million a day now being poured into the war in Vietnam? To the hundreds of companies geared to war production? To the thousands of youths now in the armed forces? Parade's report reveals how the President, even now, is preparing to shift from war to peacetime production with a minimum lurch.

Marine Helicopters Move Villagers Near Da Nang

Da Nang, Viet Nam (AP)—With chickens and pigs in tow, men, women and children clambered aboard U.S. Marine helicopters Tuesday and abandoned their villages near Da Nang to escape the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

They came from a communist-infested area about 30 miles southeast of this big Marine encampment on South Viet Nam's northern coast. They told Leathernecks engaged in Operation Colorado they were tired of frequent visit by communist troops demanding food, shelter, clothing and even young men to fight with them.

An elderly women in one settlement produced a handful of North Vietnamese currency she said communist troops gave her in exchange for food.

Worthless

She said she complained that the money was worthless in South Viet Nam. She was told to wait until the communists gain control of the country, then she could spend the money.

The people moved out of the area after U.S. Marines dropped leaflets offering to help the people resettle elsewhere. The job fell to the 3rd Battalion of the 5th Marine Regiment.

The Leathernecks brought helicopters to carry the people to new homes, in a South Vietnamese resettlement colony near Tam Ky, about 30 miles southwest of Da Nang.

When the choppers fluttered in for a landing, the people had what few personal belongings the communists had not taken, and their all important livestock.

The Marines agreed to haul pigs and chickens but drew the line at water buffalo and cows assembled on the landing zone.

After some discussion, it was decided that the cows and water buffalo—important to the rice farmer—would be left behind with a small number of villagers to herd them to Tam Ky. This required a Marine security guard because of the communists still lurking in the area.

The villagers, dressed in the traditional pajama-like clothing of the peasant and wearing conical straw hats, seemed out of place beside the helicopters.

The Leathernecks quickly put them at ease as a machine-gunner chased down an errant pig; a 200-pound veteran of three wars was surprisingly gentle as he lifted an 81-year-old woman into a helicopter and tried, in bad Vietnamese, to comfort her.

"C" rations were given to the new arrivals to spice their normal diet of rice and fish sauce.

One young Marine — sporting a four-day growth of beard and a tired expression — was asked if he thought fighting the communists was more important than moving the civilians.

"It's all a part of the job we have to do here," he said. "Fighting isn't the only answer. Look at these villagers. Some of these kids remind me of my brothers and sisters back home."

Senate Candidate Williams Enters Hospital For Tests

Detroit (AP)—Former Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams entered Jennings Hospital Monday for what his doctor described as diagnostic tests and treatment of a mild kidney infection.

Dr. Albert L. Steinbach said Williams would remain in the hospital for "a few days."

A spokesman for Williams, Democratic nominee for the U.S. Senate, said the physician was called to the Williams home Sunday night after the former governor complained of stomach pains. Williams entered the hospital this morning.

Williams has canceled his engagements for the next three days, but plans to attend the Democratic state convention in Grand Rapids on Friday, the spokesman said.

Dr. Steinbach said Williams was "resting comfortably."

Capitol Parkway will remain open.

Pen Guards Fire 3 Shots To Quell Brief Disturbance

A small disturbance broke out in a State Penitentiary yard Monday as nine inmates were being escorted to the isolation ward.

Warden Maurice Sigler said the outbreak was quelled when wall guards fired three warning shots.

The inmates were taken to isolation because they interfered with the arrest of a suspect in the assault Sunday of guard John W. Chopp, 51, in the Penitentiary auditorium, Sigler said.

Chopp was reported in fair condition in a local hospital.

Sigler said Monday's disturbance was triggered by the protests of some of the nine inmates who were walking to isolation.

Negro Church In White Area Fire-Bombed

Providence, R.I., (UPI) — A newly purchased negro church in a predominantly white area of this racially tense city was fire-bombed with Molotov cocktails early Monday.

Police, hampered by local celebration of a holiday commemorating the end of World War II, were without a solid clue in the case.

Three Molotov cocktails were tossed through the windows of the Holy Cross Church of God in Christ shortly after midnight. A fourth exploded harmlessly against an outside wall.

Airlines Advance In Weak Market

New York (AP)—Airlines rallied on news of a second tentative settlement of the airline strike but the rest of the stock market failed to follow along and the list closed definitely lower. Trading was moderate.

Volume was 5.79 million shares compared with 6.24 million Friday.

The Dow Jones industrial average closed with a loss of 5.68 at 834.85, putting it close to its yearly low of 832.57 reached Aug. 2. Another "test" of that low seemed in the making, analysts said. At best, the Dow industrials were up only .39 at the end of the first hour today.

Wall Street was fully aware that the rank and file of the union would have to ratify the agreement and the investment community had its fingers crossed, fearing that the union might reject it as it had rejected the first proposed settlement.

The market backdrop also included a report that some economists were pessimistic about economic prospects for the late and 1967. Late in the day, however, came news that industrial production in July had made a record, rising for the tenth straight month despite a cutback in automobile production.

Such big blue chips as General Motors and DuPont made new lows for the year. Against the general downdrift of prices, however, an assortment of electronics, particularly electronic suppliers made a sparkling showing.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell below its previous low made on Aug. 2 and each of its components also made a new low. The 60-stock average fell 2.1 to 300.2. Industrials dropped 3.1, rails 1.1 and utilities .9.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index fell .43 to 82.74.

Steels were mostly higher on reports that steel buying was continuing to improve above the low July level.

Prices were irregularly lower on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were unchanged to lower. U.S. Treasury bonds were sharply lower.

Late Demand Boosts All Corn Futures

Chicago (AP)—A rapidly improving late demand boosted all corn contracts to their highest levels of the season in the grain futures market Monday on gains ranging to well over 2 cents a bushel.

Wheat and oats also finished firm to strong while rye and soybeans closed in a mixed range.

Brokers said the sudden burst of buying of corn followed some rather large orders by a brokerage firm which found offerings relatively light. As prices began to move up, speculators jumped in to add to long positions or cover short ones.

Wheat was ¼-2⅝ cents a bushel higher at the close, September $1.89⅜-½; corn ⅛-2⅜ higher, September $1.47¾; oats 1¼-2¼ higher, September 75⅛ cents; rye ⅜ lower to ½ higher, September $1.34¼; soybeans 5 cents higher to 1 cent lower, August $3.72-72½.

Not The Right Time

Ed Husmann, the former Nebraska athlete, isn't planning to play football forever but he also figures there's a proper time to quit.

And the proper time is not after you've gone through the tough grind of summer training camp getting ready for the coming season.

The 35-year-old ex-Husker, who has played pro ball with the Chicago Cardinals, Dallas Cowboys and Houston Oilers, was cut by the Oilers last week.

Word of player releases in pro football travels faster than a rumor at the Thursday afternoon bridge luncheon and within hours after Husmann's release from Houston, Edmonton's Eskimoes of the Canadian Football League had the telephone wires jangling between Edmonton and Houston.

At the same time Edmonton officials were attempting to reach Husmann in Houston, he was en route to Edmonton to visit with them.

"I had thought about quitting," Husmann admits. "But since I had gone through training camp, I figured I might as well try to play for someone." But Husmann indicates this could be his last year.

Didn't Know About Pros

When Husmann quits to devote full-time to his insurance business in Houston, it will be the end of a football career that started in Ogallala nearly 20 years ago.

"When I was in high school at Ogallala, I didn't even know pro football leagues existed," he explained in a telephone conversation from Edmonton. "I didn't even anticipate playing college ball until my senior year in high school."

Husmann came to Nebraska without a scholarship, but earned one for his sophomore year as a classmate of Nebraska All-American Bob Reynolds.

"He was an ape," Reynolds recalls in a complimentary reference. "He could run as well on all four limbs as most of us could on two legs and that probably explains why he was so great as a pro player.

"He was a real good football player and probably improved more than anyone I've ever known."

Husmann improved enough to be named winner of the Tom Novak Trophy as most valuable player on the 1952 Nebraska team, a team that had All-American Jerry Minnick and all-conference choices Minnick, Dennis Emanuel, Bill Schabacker and Don Boll.

Success On First Try

While success came quickly to Husmann in football, it came even quicker in another sport.

The big defensive tackle decided in his senior year that he'd like to try his hand at wrestling. His attempt was good enough to produce a heavyweight champion for the Nebraska team in the Big Seven meet.

His first year in the American Football League sticks out most vividly in Husmann's mind. "We won the championship that first year," he recalls. "And winning is always nice.

"But every year has been enjoyable because I like to play football."

And that last statement may be more significant than his thoughts on quitting after this season. Old newspaper clippings are filled with Ed Husmann thoughts on quitting.

Don't bet more than a couple of bubble gum cards that Ed Husmann won't still be playing football until he is forced to quit.

Quick Repair Job Completed At Woods Pool

. . . WATER EXPECTED TO BE BACK TO NORMAL BY THIS MORNING

Editor's Note — Don Bryant, sports information director at the University of Nebraska and former sports editor of The Lincoln Star, has been retained as a special correspondent during the National AAU Swimming and Diving Championships at Lincoln's Woods Pool.

By DON BRYANT

If you were going to pick the time for your swimming pool's main pump to go on the blink, you'd prefer some time other than the week of the National AAU Championships.

But Les Roberts, pool manager of Lincoln's beautiful Woods Park dip-o-rarium, didn't have any choice in the matter as an unscheduled breakdown of the pool's filtering system created a heap of extra work in the midst of finishing-touch time.

"It was a close thing and we really had to put in some overtime," Roberts said Monday, after the main pump was back in service and AAU swimmers and divers from all parts of the nation took their practice splashes at Woods.

The finals of the 1966 National AAU Championships are slated for Woods Pool, commencing Thursday and running through Sunday.

Roberts reported the pump gasped to a stop Sunday night and repairmen didn't get it back into service until about 11 a.m. Monday—after Les and his staff put in some late and early hours.

"I can't praise our lifeguards enough," Les said. "They had to hand-feed the filtering system all night so that the water would be okay for the swimmers Monday."

Only sign of the ill-timed breakdown Monday was a slight "milkiness" of the water, caused by the hand-feeding of the chlorination process.

"The pool water will be completely free of milkiness and back to normal by Tuesday morning," Roberts said.

Except for the added chore caused by a balky pump, preparations are progressing well at Woods as the star-studded meet approaches.

Some new bleachers—of a permanent type, that can be installed at other city recreation areas where the need may arise—plus borrowed bleachers from the University of Nebraska are in place for the fans.

And a huge press box and officials' balcony perch now stands at the north end of the pool.

"The press box and officials' area is designed similar to the type of structure that was used last year at Maumee, Ohio," Roberts said.

Among the other projects either completed or under way which will aid in the smooth running of this best of all United States' swimming spectaculars:

—Rest and shade tents, supplied by the Nebraska National Guard.

—New lane markers, 50 meters long with alternating red and white floats. "We've practically had bead-stringing classes," Roberts quipped.

—First-aid and medical services area; a doctor, registered nurse and two student nurses will be on hand at all times.

Stroke judges will be especially pleased with a floating dock-type runway —20 yards long and four feet wide—which separates the diving area from the swimming portion of Woods.

"Bob May of the City Park Department and his staff have done a tremendous job," Roberts said. "This runway will really help the judges because they can follow the swimmers without interruption."

The floating runway is made of styrofoam and is similar to the Holmes Lake boat docks.

Osteen Gains 13th Victory

. . . JOHNSON HOMERS IN WIN

Los Angeles (AP) — Lou Johnson's two-run homer powered a four-run outburst in the fourth inning that carried Los Angeles past Cincinnati, 4-3, Monday night.

Bob Miller choked off a Cincinnati rally in the seventh, and Phil Regan snuffed out one in the ninth, preserving Claude Osteen's 13th victory against nine defeats.

Jim Gilliam singled before Johnson connected in the fourth, and the Dodgers added two other runs when Wes Parker singled home Tommy Davis and scored on John Roseboro's bunt single.

The Reds had two runs in and two on with two out when Miller replaced Osteen in the seventh. Miller ended the inning by retiring Deron Johnson on a fly ball.

But when Miller got into trouble in the ninth and gave up a run, Regan replaced him with two on and two out and ended the game by striking out Johnson.

Cincinnati's Art Shamsky failed in his bid to become the first major leaguer ever to hit home runs in five consecutive times at bat. He came up as a pinch hitter in the eighth but managed only a single.

Brown Set To Drive In Fair Races

DON BROWN

Don Brown, the transplanted native of San Fernando, Calif. who calls Lincoln his second home, has entered all three of the sprint car programs at the 1966 Nebraska State Fair scheduled for Sept. 3-4-5.

Don made Lincoln his summer residence last year and gained one of his most cherished victories before the home town crowd in the State Fair big car races last year.

He won the final feature event and was the happiest guy in town because of his impressive showing.

Brown isn't just an ordinary race car driver. He is considered by racing experts to be one of the finest sheet metal fabricators in the business. This might sound like he's a metal bender, but he winds fabricated metal into beautiful race cars and he has some impressive credentials.

He assisted Craig Breedlove in building the "Spirit of America" jet-powered salt flat dragster. The beautiful fabricating job turned in by Brown on the "Spirit" went a long way towards upping the world's land speed mark by Breedlove last year — over 600 miles per hour.

Then, Brown helped young Mario Andretti in the building of his Indianapolis 500 car this year. The Italian whiz credits Brown with aerodynamic genius in helping him set a new one-lap and four-lap Indy speed record this past May.

North Gridders Plan To Unveil Passing Attack

Fremont (AP) — North Shrine Bowl squad coach Del Miller took stock Monday of the Sunday scrimmage and drew up his plans for this week's final polishing for the game against the South at Lincoln Saturday.

Miller, with South scouts watching Sunday, didn't show his aerial attack — but it will be polished this week and is expected to be in evidence Saturday, despite his supply of fine running backs.

Miller explained that in the scrimmage his teams just made up pass plays, adding "we didn't want to show the formations we plan for the game."

Namath To Recuperate From Injury At Home

Peekskill, N.Y. (AP) — Joe Namath, the New York Jets' quarterback whose highly-publicized right knee was injured in an exhibition game last Saturday, was given permission by the club Monday to stay at home.

Namath will skip workouts the early part of the week but probably will return to camp later.

Defending Champion Makes Diving Look Easy

. . . WRIGHTSON REIGNING AAU KING IN ALL THREE DIVING EVENTS

By JOHN HINES
Star Sports Writer

It all looked so easy as Bernie Wrightson, history's only man to win three national AAU outdoor diving titles in a single meet, plunged into the water time after time from the 3-meter springboard at Lincoln's Woods Park.

It was Bernie's first workout since arriving a couple of hours earlier on the plane from Phoenix to defend his 1965 championships here in the National AAU Swimming and Diving finals Thursday through Sunday.

And as one watched him, it appeared that Bernie didn't even take time to think of his moves. He readily agreed.

"We don't" was his reply to how much thought goes into a dive. "The idea for me is to clear my mind, for my muscles can tell me what to do better than my mind.

"Much of the timing is the same for all three distances (one and three-meter springboard and 10-meter platform), but the techniques differ.

"The springboard throws your hips in motion and you're already under way as soon as you get into the air. But most of the diving from the platform is done on the way down, for you tend to fall straight when you're two feet in the air off the tower."

This is actually old homecoming for Bernie, who is staying with his cousins, Niva and Winfield Howland, 2228 E Street. He also has additional cousins in Lincoln, Vi and Ab Givens. Bernie is originally from Denver, but now lives in Phoenix. He graduated this spring from Arizona State in Tempe.

"There's no way of counting the number of dives we do every day," he said of his training routine, which stretches about 2½ hours a day six days a week in college and then five or six hours a day during the summer, when more is accomplished.

Even the best can get in a rut of little mistakes and Bernie says, "Your body gets into habits so easily you need someone like Dick Smith (his coach) watching you, for mistakes keep creeping back.

"Coach is also a terrific influence on mental attitude, for how you approach the meet mentally determines a lot how you'll do."

What can the crowd look for to determine a good dive?

"You look for smoothness and confidence in the diver's movements to show that particular diver knows what he's doing," Bernie offered. "You watch the lift, at a controlled distance from the boards. Definite action in the air tips off a good diver, as do a straight body and a strong, confident entry into the water."

Bernie himself rates an inward 2½ somersault off the three-meter board as probably his best dive, and folks can judge for themselves when he springs into action at 9:30 a.m. Thursday off the one-meter board.

Friendships are an integral part of international swimming, and many well-wishers and old friends stopped by to greet Bernie as he practiced. He rates his top diving thrill along this line.

"The trips overseas are so rewarding and are the finest experiences I've ever had," he says of his trips to the World Student Games in Budapest, Hungary last summer and a 41-day jaunt earlier this summer to five countries in he Middle East, a State Department tour with fellow diver Chuck Knorr of Ohio State and five swimmers.

South Grid Coach Happy With Play Of Offensive Unit

Crete (UPI) The South Shrine squad held a spirited offensive and defensive workout Monday in preparation for Saturday's meeting with the North in the annual Nebraska Shrine Bowl Game at Lincoln.

Coach Bill James said he was pleased with his offensive unit which looked better in the workout than in any previous drill.

The defensive unit worked against the "A-OK" formation. Light contact workouts were slated for the rest of the week.

James said Harold Griffin, tackle from Lincoln Southeast, looked good in defensive drill. Another good performance on defense came from Beatrice back Junior Wolfe.

—NINE GOLFERS TO COMPETE AT LCC TODAY—

Vet, Newcomer To Meet In Amateur Qualifying

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Bob Astleford, the current king of Nebraska golf, and R. B. Lau, the 20-year-old Lincoln City Champion who could become the next big threat to Astleford's reign, will clash today along with seven other golfers in the National Amateur Qualifying at The Lincoln Country Club.

Lau, who has devoted most of his golf to national tournaments the past year, passed up the Nebraska State Amateur this year at Hastings.

And the University of Nebraska junior feels this competition in national meets against the likes of last year's runner - up in the National Amateur, Bob Dickson, stands him in good stead against local competitors.

Lau and Astleford did not meet in the state tourney this year because Lau decided to save his game for the Broadmoor Invitational at Colorado Springs.

Astleford, meanwhile, was winning his fifth straight state championship with Dick Spangler Jr. of Lincoln giving closest chase.

Spangler is among the nine entries in today's qualifying over the 36-hole route at LCC.

Today's meeting will be the first between Lau and Astleford since the 1965 state tournament at LCC where Lau happened to be one of a group of golfers unfortunate enough to be overhauled by an Astleford comeback that gave him the title after trailing by seven strokes with 18 holes to play.

Lau was three strokes ahead of Astleford going into the final 18.

Astleford, the cigar-smoking Omahan, has a special reason for wanting to do well in today's qualifying.

The 35-year-old bachelor was prohibited from last year's qualifying for the National Amateur while his amateur status was under investigation. He was cleared of the charges early in June this summer.

Astleford has always played well in the National Amateur, but until last year, it was a match play affair and he, unfortunately, was running into opponents playing just a little better.

The format has been changed and last year, for the first time, the tournament went to a medal play affair.

"I have always played well in it," he recalls. "But I've always gotten beat by someone playing better that particular day."

Astleford's chief competition over today's 36-hole grind figures to come from Lau, Spangler, and two Fremont golfers, Dave Franklin and Jack Flatt.

Others entered are Don Bridge of Norfolk, Marc Gorges of Lincoln, Ed Smith of Lincoln and Bill Hawkins of Omaha.

Atlanta Coach Impressed By Ex-Husker Claridge

. . . HECKER CITES CLARIDGE'S LEADERSHIP, PLAY CALLING ABILITIES

New York (AP)—The new Atlanta Falcons of the National Football League seem to have jelled quicker than the American League's new Miami Dolphins—which is just the way the experts figured it wasn't going to happen.

When the expansion drafts were completed earlier in the year, it was generally believed that a more liberal stocking plan had presented Miami with stronger personnel than Atlanta received.

But the results of the first exhibition games would indicate that the Falcons are moving along faster. Both teams have lost all their games, but the Falcons have been close in all three, bowing to Philadelphia 9-7, St. Louis 20-10 and New York 14-7.

The Dolphins have been stunned twice, by San Diego 38-10 and Kansas City 33-0.

And George Wilson, who spent all of his career in the NFL until he took the Miami job, admits he is dissatisfied—particularly with his two veteran quarterbacks.

That would leave the job up for grabs between Rick Norton, the Dolphins' No. 1 draft choice from Kentucky, or George Wilson Jr., the coach's son who originally was drafted and signed by the Detroit Lions as a punter.

"I may wind up using George and Rick all the way," Wilson said in low-rating his two veteran passers, Dick Wood and Eddie Wilson.

Atlanta Coach Norb Hecker has been impressed by Dennis Claridge, the quarterback he brought along from Green Bay.

"Claridge has shown leadership ability," the former Packers' assistant said. "He takes command of the team and does a good job of play calling. He has gained poise in every game."

Claridge, a three-year vet who saw little action with Bart Starr holding the No. 1 post at Green Bay, has connected on 26 passes in his battle with rookies Randy Johnson and Steve Sloan.

Linebacker Tommy Nobis of Texas, the Falcons' No. 1 draft choice, was impressive in his first game against New York last Saturday and Ron Smith, a defensive back grabbed from the Chicago Bears in the expansion draft, has scored two of the team's three touchdowns.

Among the others who have stood out so far are linebacker Marion Rushing, acquired from St. Louis; defensive end Sam Williams, Detroit; Defensive tackle Guy Reese, Baltinore; linebacker Bill Jobko, Minnesota, and defensive tackle Dennis Murphy, Chicago.

—NON-CONFERENCE SLATE HAS ARKANSAS, HOUSTON, TEXAS TECH—

O-State Coach Figures Opponents Main Problem

Stillwater, Okla. (AP)— The tall, broad-shouldered man with silver-tipped black hair shook his head as he discussed Oklahoma State's grid prospects over an ever-present cup of coffee.

"Our problem," said football coach Phil Cutchin, "is the people we've been playing."

Cutchin, who took on the school's gridiron - guiding chores three seasons ago, quickly made it clear what he meant by naming the lineup of non-conference foes.

This year it includes Arkansas, Houston and Texas Tech. And the Cowboys face Arkansas, Texas and Air Force the following year.

This, in addition to tougher-than-ever competition in the Big Eight conference, means Cutchin and his football charges have their work cut out for them.

In three years, Cutchin has an overall record of 8-21. His teams have won three non-conference games while losing six. The Cowboys twice beat Tulsa, and added another triumph over Wichita.

On the other side of the ledger, OSU has lost three games to Arkansas, which sailed through two seasons unbeaten, one contest to a national champion Texas team, one to aerial-minded Tulsa and one to Texas Tech, which finished 8-2 last year.

But Cutchin, a former assistant to Paul (Bear) Bryant, isn't ready to quit before the kickoff.

"We have a better sophomore crop than usual," he said. "If they play well early we could have a good ball club. But it is unusual for sophomores to step out and start beating Arkansas and people like that."

Cutchin's team finished with a 3-7 record last year, but climaxed the season with a 17-16 triumph over the University of Oklahoma. It was State's first win over the Sooners in 19 years.

Powell's Home Run Gives Orioles Win

Boston (AP) —Boog Powell's third home run of the game — a two-run blast in the 11th inning - lifted the Baltimore Orioles past the Boston Red Sox 4-2 Monday night.

Powell, whose ninth-inning homer tied the game 2-2, crashed his 30th homer of the season off reliver John Wyatt with one out in the 11th and Frank Robinson, who had drawn a leadoff walk, on base.

Reliever Eddie Fisher, who came on at the start of the 10th, was the winner.

Indians Nip Nats

Cleveland (AP) — Two run homers by Jim Gentile and Chuck Hinton gave the Cleveland Indians a 4-3 victory over Washington Monday night.

Sonny Siebert, who tossed a no-hitter against the Senators earlier in the season, gained his 13th victory in 20 decisions but needed relief help from Luis Tiant in the ninth after Paul Casanova's second homer of the game, a two-run shot, closed the gap.

Kosco Leads Twins' Win Over Angels

Minneapolis-St. Paul (AP) — Andy Kosco, given another chance after apparently striking out, lined a single with two out in the seventh inning, driving in the tie-breaking run in Minnesota's 5-3 victory over California Monday night.

Adding insult to Angel lefthander George Brunet, rival pitcher Jim Kaat tripled home two more runs for the Twins in the seventh after Brunet had three-hit Minnesota for six innings.

With the game tied 2-2 and one on, plate umpire Jim Odom called Kosco out as he swung at Brunet's pitch on a third strike. But first base umpire Al Salerno ruled that Kosco had foul-tipped the ball and catcher Bob Rodgers did not hold it.

Light Heavy King Wins On Decision

Las Vegas, Nev. (AP) — Jose Torres retained his world light heavyweight championship in a bristling 15-round fight decision over 40-year-old Eddie Cotton and was awarded the unanimous decision which was roundly booed Monday night.

The 30-year-old Puerto Rican from Brooklyn, making the second defense of the title, encountered far more trouble from his older rival in the nationally televised bout.

There were no knockdowns and all of the cheers from a disappointingly small crowd of 4,300 in the Las Vegas Convention Center went to the gallant old guy from Seattle.

Referee Nat Morgan scored it 70-67, Judge Ron Amos had it 69-67, and Judge Mike Petrovich had it 68-67-all for the 30-year-old champion.

Going into the last round, it appeared that Cotton, who has been boxing for almost 20 years, might score the upset of the decade. He was a 7-2 underdog, and many fans predicted he would not last 10 rounds against the heavier-hitting Torres.

Torres, fighting from his familiar peek-a-boo fashion, bulled and mauled his taller opponent around the ring and scored repeatedly with left punches to the midsection and overhand rights to the head.

Five RBIs By White Leads Phils

Philadelphia (AP)—Bill White drove in five runs with three singles Monday night, helping Chris Short register his 14th victory as Philadelphia defeated Chicago 11-5.

White singled across two runs in the Phillies' four-run first inning, knocked in another pair in the second and added his third single in the eighth when the Phillies scored three runs.

Short gave up a three-run homer to Byron Browne in the fourth and was replaced by Terry Fox in the eighth after doubles by Dolfo Phillips and Billy Williams.

AAU To Step Up Boxing Program

New York (AP)—The Amateur Athletic Union, stung by Russia's cancellation of a dual meet in boxing, unveiled Monday a unique, long-range development program aimed at restoring American prestige in the sport by the 1968 Olympics.

Under the program AAU boxers will learn to deal with international style boxing — in which more finesse is emphasized—in a series of dual meets with at least seven nations in Europe and Latin America during the remainder of 1966 and in 1967.

In addition, the U.S. Olympic Committee is adding to the program by scheduling Olympic style clinics to help Armed Forces boxers, Golden Glovers and school and club fighters to cope with the different techniques that earn points in international matches.

U.S. Netters Win Davis Cup Matches

Cleveland (AP)—The United States swept the Davis Cup tennis American Zone finals from Mexico, 5-0, Monday when Clark Graebner defeated Rafael Osuna 6-3, 6-4, 6-4, after Cliff Richey downed Marcelo Lara 11-13, 6-0, 10-8, 6-4.

The American Zone championship already had been won on singles and doubles victories by Dennis Ralston and Graebner in singles Saturday and as a doubles partnership Sunday.

The next Davis Cup rounds for the United States team will be against Brazil in October. One more round remains for the winner of that interzone match in order to get to Australia for the challenge rounds.

Buford's Hit In 10th Gives Chisox Win

Chicago (AP)—Don Buford's run-scoring single in the 10th inning gave the Chicago White Sox a 4-3 victory over Kansas City Monday night.

Al Weis led off the 10th with a single and was sacrificed to second. After Joe Grzenda walked John Romano intentionally, Buford came through with a single to right center, scoring Weis with the winning run.

Dick Green tripled home two runs and scored another in the third inning, giving the Athletics a 3-1 lead, but pinch hitter Bill Skowron tied it for Chicago with a two-run homer in the seventh.

Red Sox Get Fischer In Trade With Reds

Boston (AP) — The Boston Red Sox obtained right-handed pitcher Hank Fischer from the Cincinnati Reds Monday for cash and a player to be named later.

To make room for the 26-year old Fischer, the Red Sox optioned Dave Morehead to Pittsfield of the Eastern League. Morehead, who pitched a no-hitter last September, has been sidelined with arm trouble this year.

Cash Hits 200th HR

Detroit (AP) — Norm Cash hit the 200th home run of his major league career, powering the Detroit Tigers to a 6-5 victory over the New York Yankees Monday night.

Cash's homer, following Jerry Lumpe's single in the fifth inning, snapped a 2-2 tie. The Tigers added another run in the inning on Al Kaline's double and Jim Northrup's single, and they moved ahead 6-2 in the sixth on Roy Oyler's run-scoring single.

Chicago Man After Distance Swim Mark

San Francisco (AP) — A research chemist from Chicago stroked strongly through the cold currents of the Pacific Monday, hopeful of being the first person to swim from the offshore Farallon Islands to San Francisco's Golden Gate.

Ted A. Erikson, 38, waded into the ocean at 7:35 a.m., PDT, Monday and expected to complete his swim at 1 a.m., PDT, Tuesday on the beach beside the Golden Gate Bridge.

As the sea gull flies, the distance is 23½ miles. But strong currents from the north required Erikson to follow a curving, northeasterly couse which added up to around 32 miles.

On three occasions sharks came within about 20 yards of Erikson. Gunfire from accompanying boats killed the first, wounded the second and drove the third away.

All were under 10 feet in length. One of the unwanted visitors interrupted Erikson's lunch of noodle soup, baby food oatmeal, tea and light syrup.

Casper Leading Money Winner On PGA Tour

Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. (AP)—Billy Casper remained far in the lead Monday in professional golfers' money, according to figures of the Professional Golfers Association through the Thunderbird tournament.

Casper has scooped up $99,315.90 in PGA-sponsored tournaments and $5,384.76 in unofficial winnings for a nest egg of $104,700.66.

The leaders, with official PGA money, unofficial earnings and totals:

Billy Casper $99,315.90, $5,384.76-$104,700.66; Jack Nicklaus $74,953.33, $3,861.87-$78,815.20; Arnold Palmer $73,617.98, $19,126.41-$92,744.39; Doug Sanders $70,996.39, $20,359.85-$91,356.24; Gay Brewer $66,565.71, $5,227.84-$71,793.55. Cloninger's Five-Hitter Halts Astros

Houston (AP)—Ed Mathews drove in three runs with a single and a homer, and Tony Cloninger pitched a five-hitter as Atlanta defeated Houston 4-2 Monday night.

Mathews gave the Braves a 1-0 lead with a run-scoring single in the first, then wiped out a 2-1 deficit with a mammoth two-run homer in the seventh following Cloninger's first of two singles.

The homer soared in the fourth level of the right field seats, a spot seldom reached at the Astrodome.

Board Ups Valuation To $12.2 Billion

The State Board of Equalization Monday increased Nebraska's real estate valuations by approximately 12½% to a $12.2 billion total in sweeping adjustments made in the 1966 valuations reported by the 93 counties.

State Tax Commissioner George Dworak's final recommendations, which included revisions based on the two weeks of equalization hearings, were accepted by the board without change after a two-hour session.

Lancaster County's urban and suburban valuations were increased 42%, representing restoration of a 28% cutback made by the county board and a net increase of 11% from the equalized 1965 level.

The county's rural land valuation was boosted 44%, wiping out a 15% cutback by the county and representing a net increase of 25% from last year's level. There was no change in the county's agricultural improvement proposals.

Douglas Countu was increased 24% on urban and suburban valuations with no change on rural valuations.

The county originally had been slated for a 14% decrease until Dworak discovered some 300 confidential statements of 1965 sales withheld by the Douglas County Assessor's office.

Sixteen counties were pegged to valuation levels reported by their scientific reappraisals completed under the 1963 mandatory reappraisal law.

The appraisals of five counties — Adams, Butler, Jefferson, Saline and Sarpy—were accepted without change.

Adjustments were ordered for 11 counties in reported valuations to reflect full actual value reported by the independent appraisal companies prior to modification by county boards.

In accepting Dworak's final recommendations, the board ordered rural increases for 83 counties, leaving 10 unchanged from reported levels.

Rural improvements for all counties were adjusted to the 1965 equalized levels, taking into account any subsequent changes made by the county boards.

In equalizating urban valuations, the reported levels of 53 counties were increased, 15 were decreased and 25 left unchanged.

Similar adjustments were made for suburban property to equalize with urban valuations, the board reported.

Gov. Frank Morrison, board chairman, said the "unanimous action taken by the board was the only one possible under the recent Supreme Court decisions and the evidence adduced at the equalization hearings."

State Tax Commissioner George Dworak advised the board his recommendations for the various county valuations raise last year's 28.3 average assessment ratio for the state to "within reason of the statutory 35% of actual value."

He said the 1966 median is 33.58% on rural property and 34.87% on urban property for the state.

Also adopted by the board was Dworak's recommendation that the proposed urban-suburban adjustments "shall not be applied to commercial and industrial property."

The tax commissioner said that "commercial and industrial property in general is over-assessed across the state."

He said this opinion was based on tax commissioner's studies, testimony at the equalization hearings and his experience and knowledge as a former county assessor.

In a surprise move, the board authorized the tax commissioner's office to investigate the 1966 mill levies of all county and taxing subdivisions to determine that local levies are adjusted to reflect the valuations changes ordered by the state board.

"No taxing subdivision," Morrison said, "should raise any more general fund tax dollars than budgeted because of the valuation increases."

The governor noted that the state's fixed levies and those of some subdivisions will gain additional tax dollars by the valuation hike, but "any increase in tax dollars from the increased valuation should be taken into consideration in setting next year's budget."

"There is no reason any subdivision should get additional tax dollars, if such future action is taken, because of the valuation boost."

In its findings and conclusions in the ordered adjustments, the board noted that the scientific reappraisals were the best evidence of actual valuations.

Secondly, the board noted that the sales-assessment ratio studies, adjusted after testimony and evidence in the equalization hearings, were a "reasonably reliable" basis on which to equalize valuations between the counties in view of the Supreme Court decision.

The board disregarded county perimeter studies of valuation as being invalid on the basis of hearing testimony.

Dworak noted that Nebraska's farm land carries an average value of $79 an acre for 1966 as compared with $65 per acre last year.

However, he noted that the U.S. Department of Agriculture has estimated the state's farm land at $118 per acre on the average.

Convict Says Gun Law Won't Keep Weapons Under Control

An inmate of the State Penitentiary, writing in the prison newspaper, the Forum, said that "no amount of legislation, short of banning weapons in this country, could prevent a person from obtaining a weapon . . ."

The writer is Kenny Wells, co-editor of the weekly Penitentiary newspaper.

". . . Many, many murders are also commited with knives, clubs, garrotes (nylon hose variety) . . ." he continued. "Could all these weapons be controlled?"

Wells posed a Constitutional question, quoting the U.S. Constitution's Bill of Rights, "the right of the people to keep and bear arms shall not be infringed."

Perhaps, he said, controls could be placed on the unrestricted purchase of weapons allowing only stable persons to buy guns. But, he asked, would the "slayer of 13 (Charles Whitman in Texas) have been granted permission to buy a weapon? Certainly. He was what the newspapers called the 'All-American Boy'."

Wells wrote, "Guns, like knives, ropes and automobiles, are merely instruments in the hands of man. Whether the instrument is used peaceably or not depends upon the man — not upon the instrument."

House Votes To Pump Up Home Market

Washington (AP) — With a single dissert, the House voted Monday to pump up the nation's deflated home mortgage market by $3.75 billion — and make it easier to finance a home.

The vote was 314 to 1, with Rep. Torbert H. MacDonald, D-Mass., the dissenter.

The measure would increase the ability of the Federal National Mortgage Association to buy existing housing mortgages, thus releasing funds for new mortgages.

The FNMA now is authorized to borrow as much as 10 times its capital to finance home purchases. The House legislation would increase this to 15 times.

Legislation with the same purpose, but with different provisions, already has passed the Senate. But handlers of the House bill say their measure probably will gain Senate acceptance.

Liquor Control Group Sticks By Lincoln Decision

The State Liquor Control Commission Monday reported it has denied requests that it reconsider its action on two liquor license applications for Lincoln.

The commission held firm in its decisions to approve the application of John Mettlin Sr. and his son, John Mettlin Jr., for a beer license at 2745 So. 48th, and to deny the application of the Cavern Club at 2110 Winthrop Road for a bottle club license.

Unimproved 120 acres. Some bottom land. All tillable. 11 miles north on 14th. ½ east. Southside. 489-1960. 29

Yes, the rains came and the farmers are going to have a bountiful crop. We still have some farms that you could purchase now and participate in the landlord's share from the farm.

1. 15 miles south of Lincoln. Northeast of Cortland, close to pavement, very nice 120 acres of land. Exceptionally nice buildings, 3 bedroom bungalow, lots of outbuildings, one of the best.
2. 160 acres unimproved 1½ miles east of No. 1. Very good producing farm on graveled highway. Nice pasture with pond.
3. 160 Acres 15 miles east of Lincoln. Close to Alvo. Exceptionally nice farm. Modest buildings on pavement. One of the best.
4. 150 acres 2 miles south of Firth. A good producing farm nearly all under cultivation on good graveled highway. Call or see the land office.

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

There were 4,472,000 households that owned TV sets in Canada in 1965. Of these, only 50,000 households, or 1%, had color television.

The oldest town in Texas is Ysleta, a western Texas community settled in 1682.

The election of a president of the United States has been thrown into the House only twice—in 1800 and 1824. Only six-tenths of one per cent of the vote cast in two states kept the 1948 election from also going to the House.

Most railroads and buses in the United States and Canada charge one fare for a blind person traveling with a seeing attendant. The price concession does not apply to a blind person traveling alone or with a guide dog.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How To Work It

to L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, substract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
